

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Adams County

2005

89

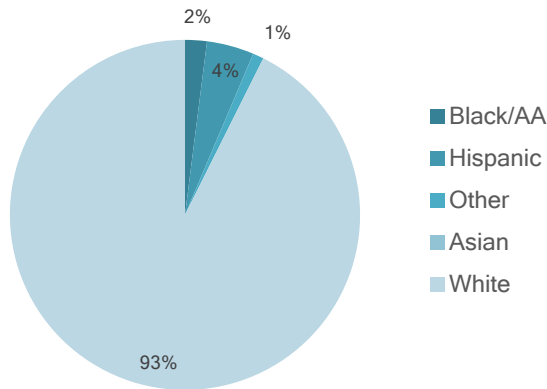

2011

299

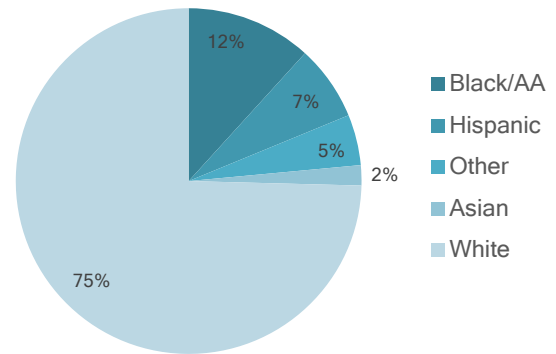

236% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

ADAMS COUNTY

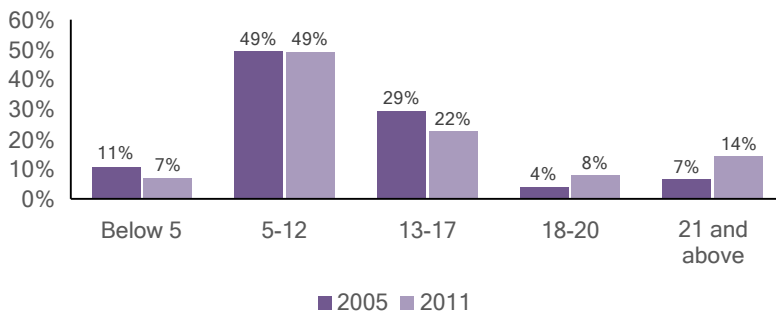

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Adams County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (93%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Adams County were Black/AA (2%), Hispanic/Latino (4%), or Other (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Adams County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Adams County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Allegheny County

2005

2235

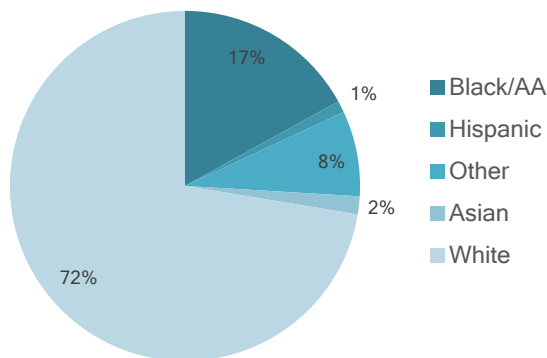

2011

4894

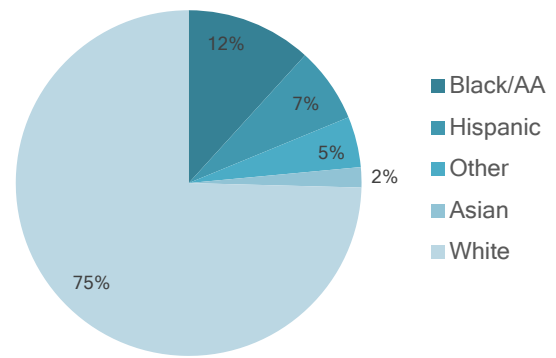

119% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

ALLEGHENY COUNTY

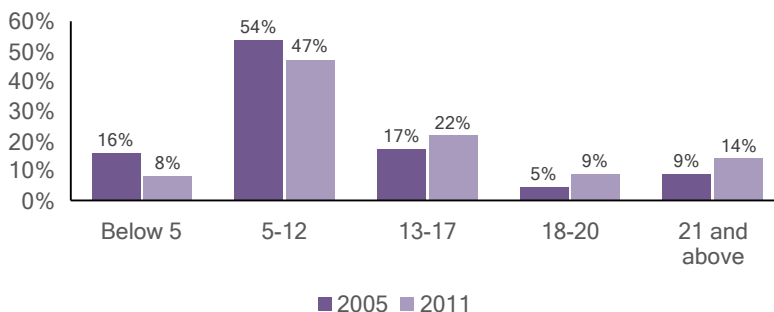

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Allegheny County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (72%). Almost 1 in 5 individuals with autism (17%) in Allegheny County receiving services were Black or African American. A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Allegheny County were Hispanic/Latino (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania (7%), but a larger proportion were from an "other" race or ethnicity (8% in) Allegheny County compared to 4% in the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Allegheny County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Allegheny County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Armstrong County

2005

89

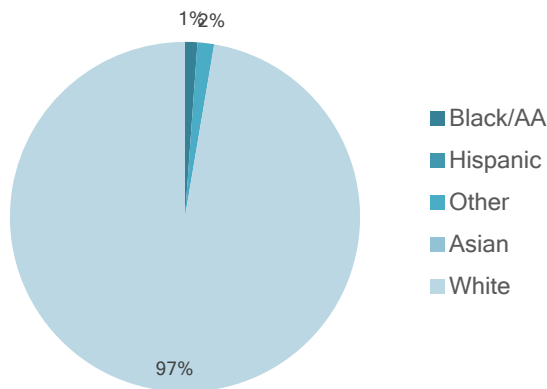

2011

262

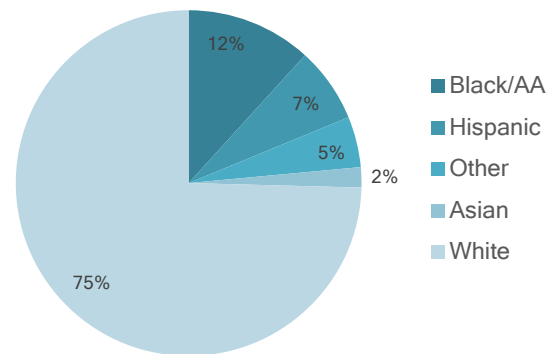

194% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

ARMSTRONG COUNTY

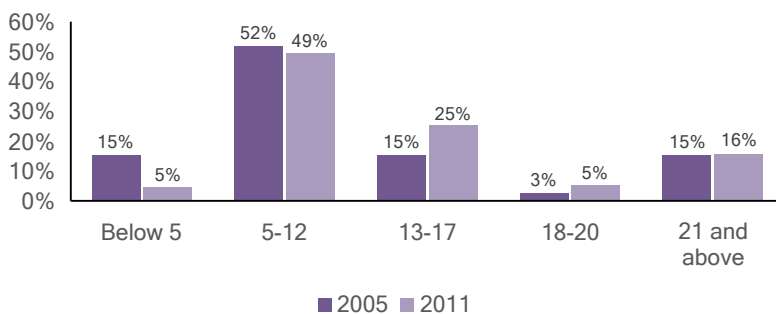

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Armstrong County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (97%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Armstrong County were Black or African American (1%) or Hispanic/Latino (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Armstrong County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Armstrong County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Beaver County

2005

300

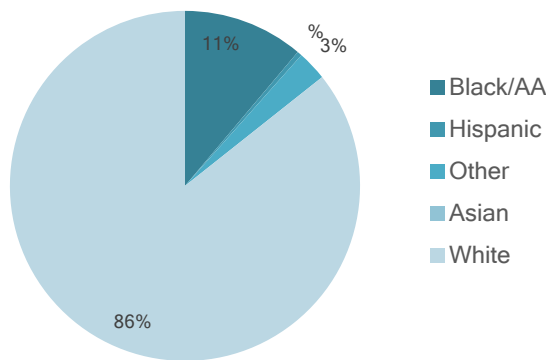

2011

692

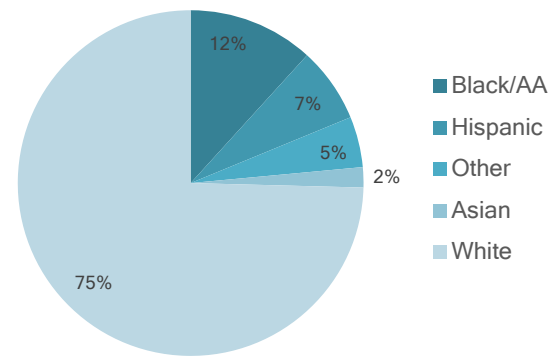

131% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

BEAVER COUNTY

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Beaver County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (86%). About 1 in 10 individuals with autism (11%) in Beaver County receiving services were Black or African American. A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Beaver County were Hispanic/Latino (3%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania (7%). This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Beaver County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Beaver County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Bedford County

2005

60

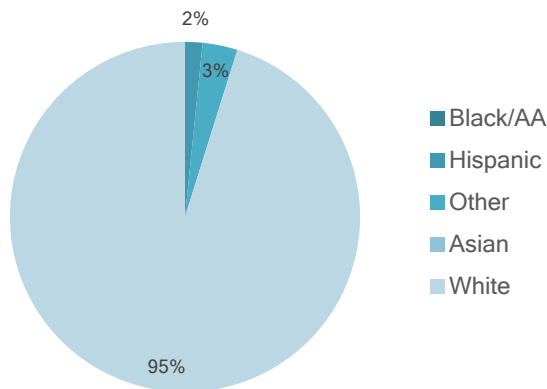

2011

124

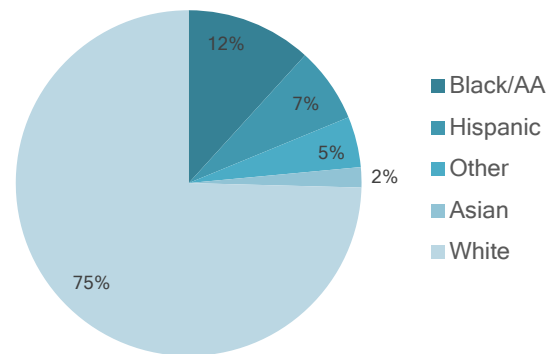

107% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

BEDFORD COUNTY

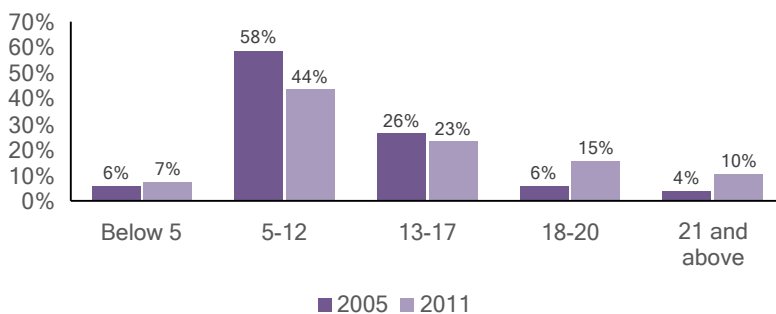

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Bedford County, the highest proportion of individuals is classified as White/Caucasian (95%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Bedford County were Hispanic/Latino (3%) or Black or African-American (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Bedford County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Bedford County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Berks County

2005

740

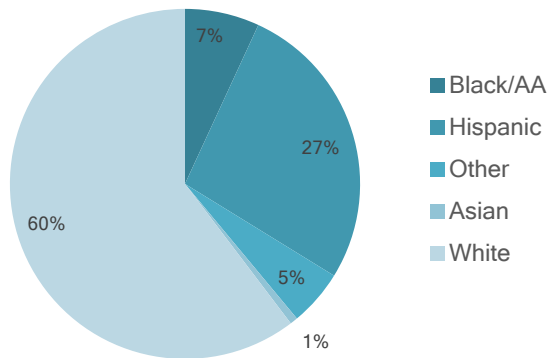

2011

1414

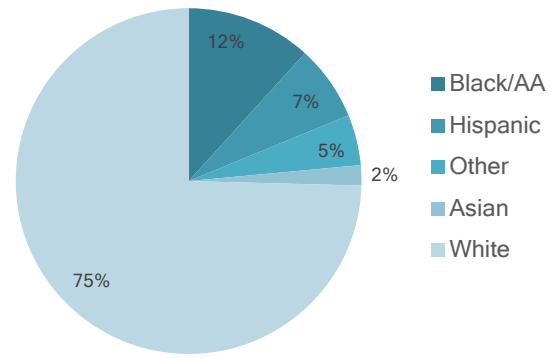

91% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

BERKS COUNTY

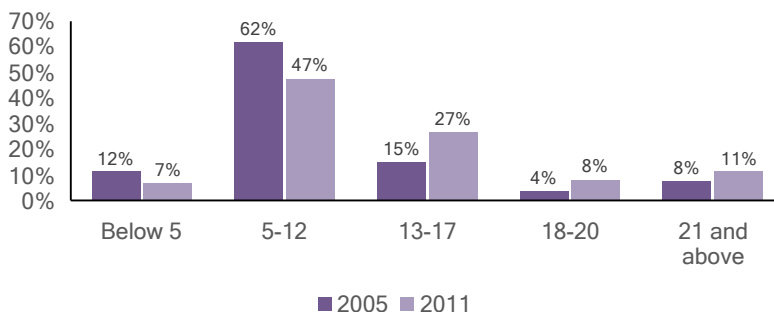

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Berks County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (60%). About 1 in 4 individuals with autism receiving services in Berks County were Hispanic/Latino (27%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Berks County were Black or African American (7%) or Asian (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania, but a larger proportion were from an "other" race or ethnicity (5%) in Berks County compared to 4% in the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Berks County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Berks County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Blair County

2005

209

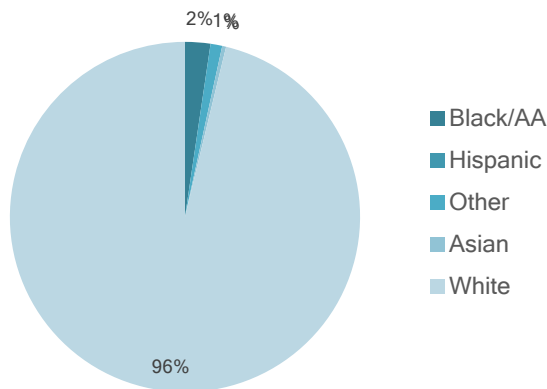

2011

556

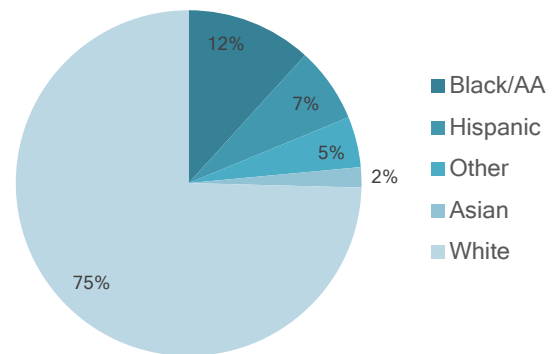

166% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

BLAIR COUNTY

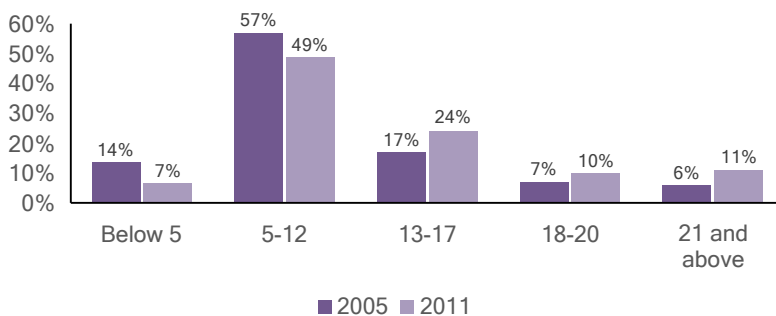

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Blair County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (96%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Blair County were Black or African American (2%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), or Other (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Blair County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Blair County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Bradford County

2005

73

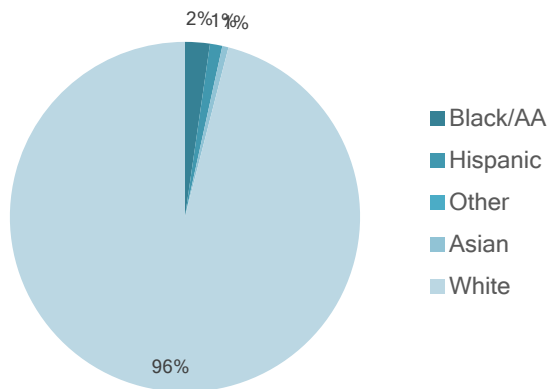

2011

175

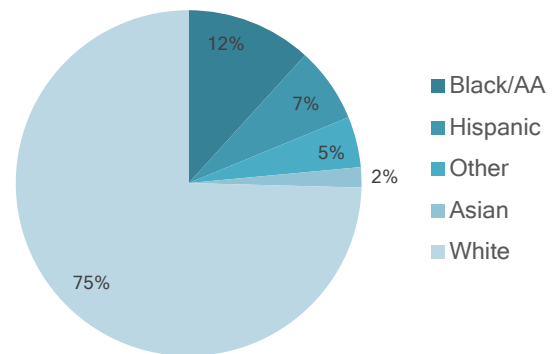

140% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

BRADFORD COUNTY

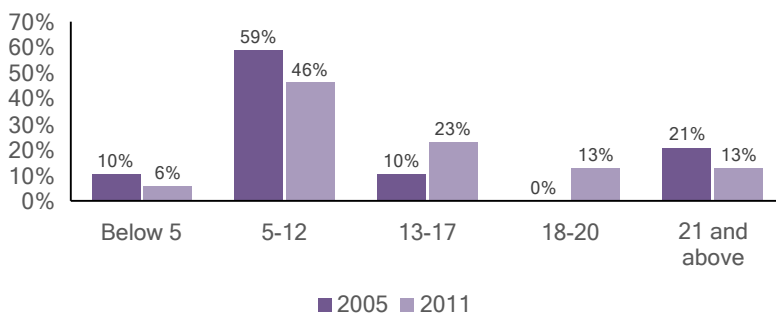

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Bradford County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (96%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Bradford County were Black or African American (2%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), or Other (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Bradford County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Bradford County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, there was a drastic increase in individuals 18-20 years old who will be soon be aging into the adult systems of care.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Bucks County

2005

750

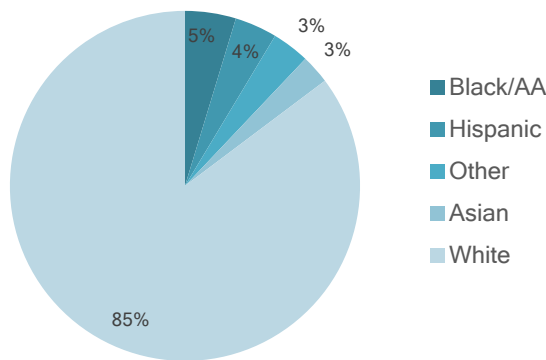

2011

1538

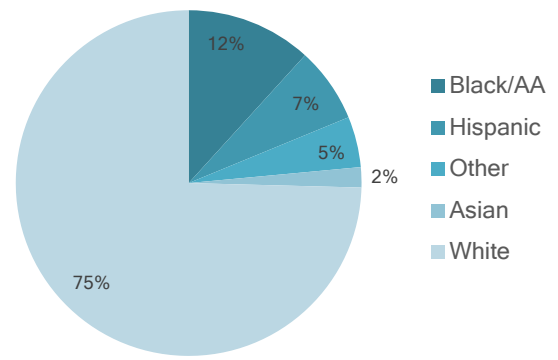

105% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

BUCKS COUNTY

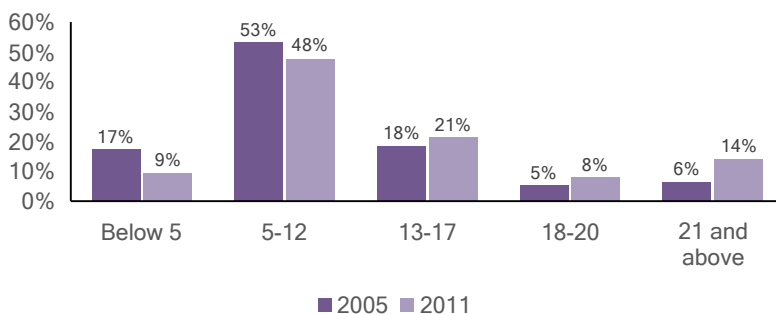

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Bucks County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (85%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Bucks County were Black or African American (5%), Hispanic/Latino (4%), or Other (3%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. However, the proportion of individuals with autism receiving services who were Asian (3%) is slightly higher than the rest of Pennsylvania (2%). This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Bucks County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Bucks County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Butler County

2005

317

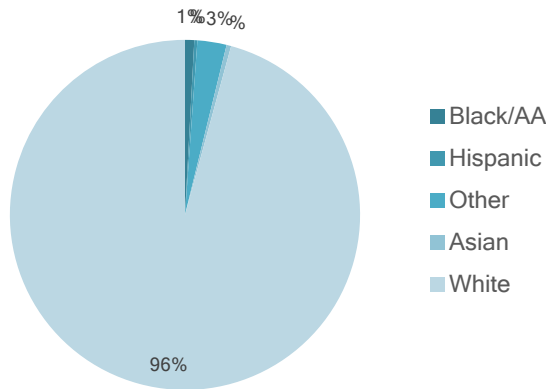

2011

707

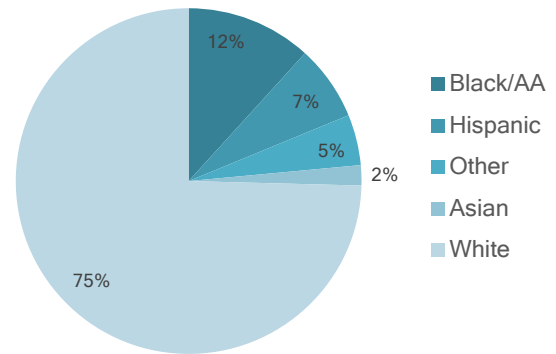

123% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

BUTLER COUNTY

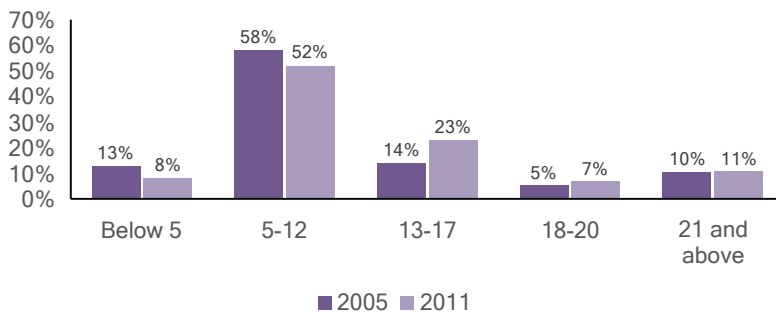

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Butler County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (96%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Butler County were Black or African American (1 %) or Other (3%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Butler County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Butler County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Cambria County

2005

193

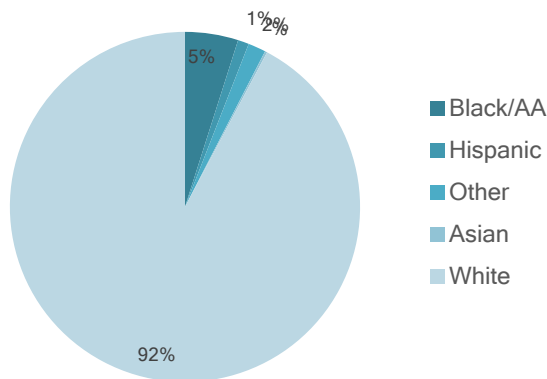

2011

489

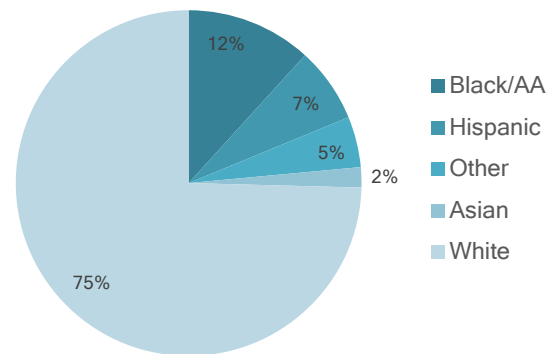

153% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

CAMBRIA COUNTY

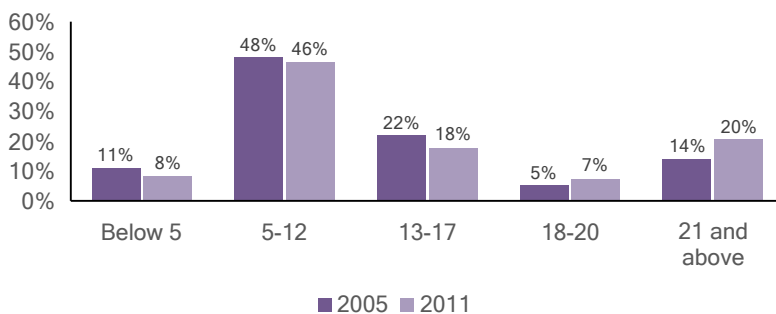

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Cambria County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (92%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Cambria County were Black or African American (5%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Cambria County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Cambria County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Cameron County

2005

<10

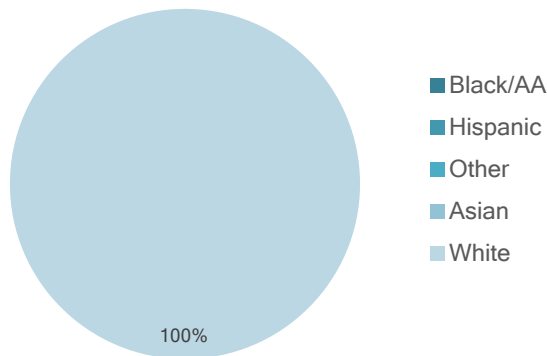

2011

18

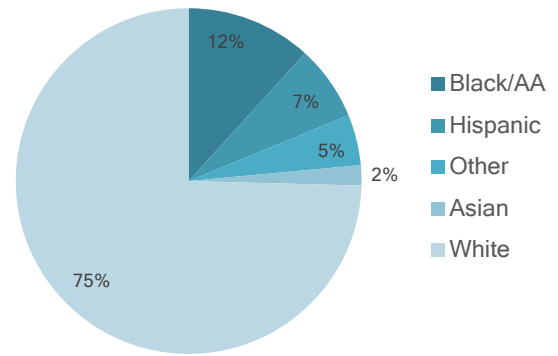

260% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

CAMERON COUNTY

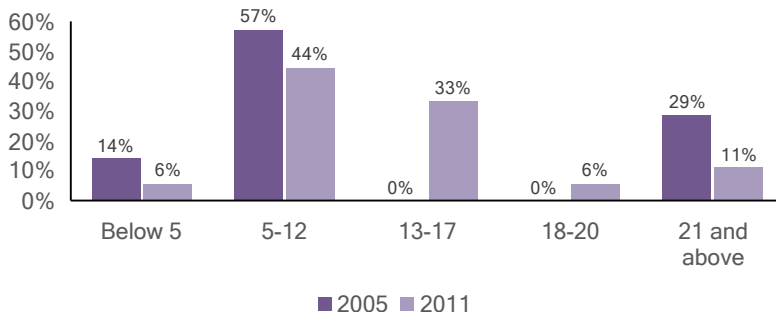

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Cameron County, all individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (100%) which is a larger proportion compared to the rest of Pennsylvania (74%). This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Cameron County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Cameron County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. There was a drastic increase in individuals 13-17 and 18-20 years old who will be soon be aging into the adult systems of care.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Carbon County

2005

94

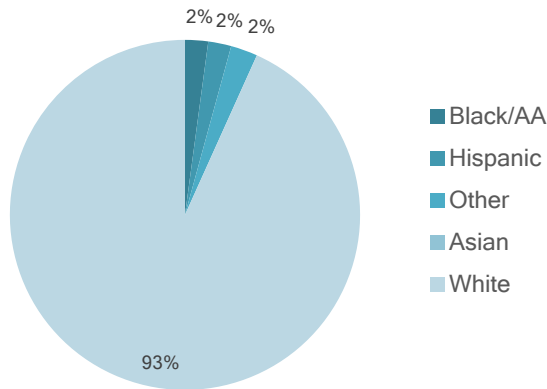

2011

282

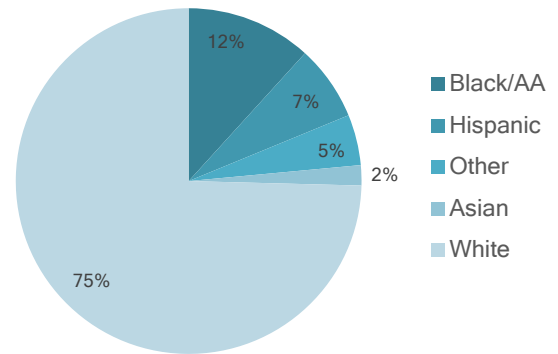

200% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

CARBON COUNTY

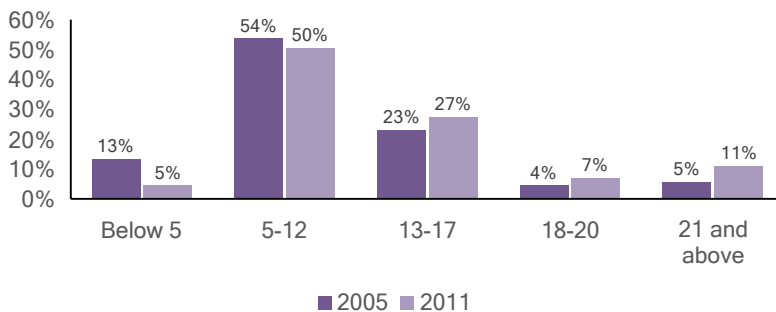

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Carbon County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (93%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Carbon County were Black or African American (2%), Hispanic/Latino (2%), or Other (3%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Carbon County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Carbon County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Centre County

2005

174

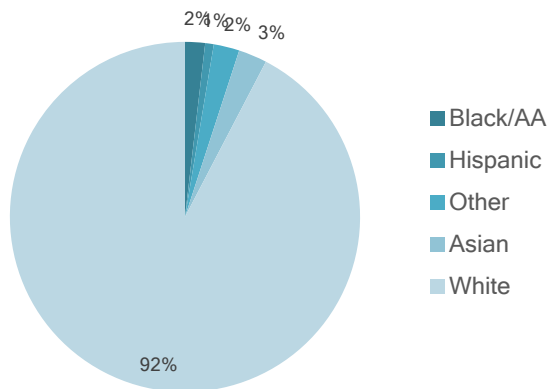

2011

379

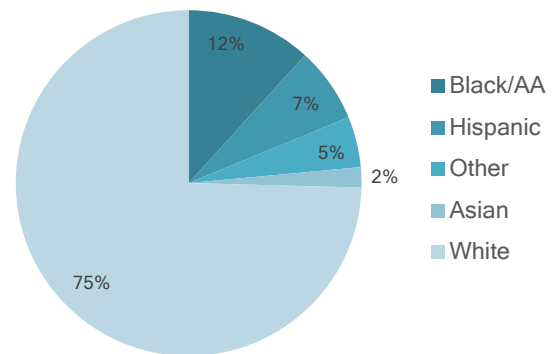

118% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

CENTRE COUNTY

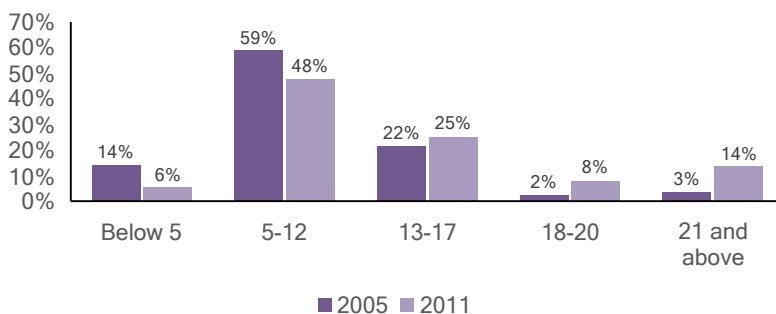

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Centre County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (92%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Centre County were Black or African American (2%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. However, the proportion of individuals with autism receiving services who were Asian (3%) is slightly higher than the rest of Pennsylvania (2%). This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Centre County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Centre County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Chester County

2005

718

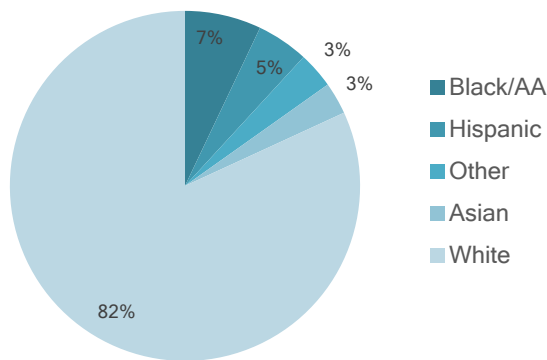

2011

1324

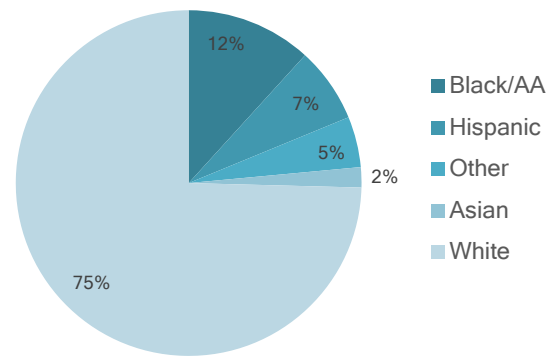

84% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

CHESTER COUNTY

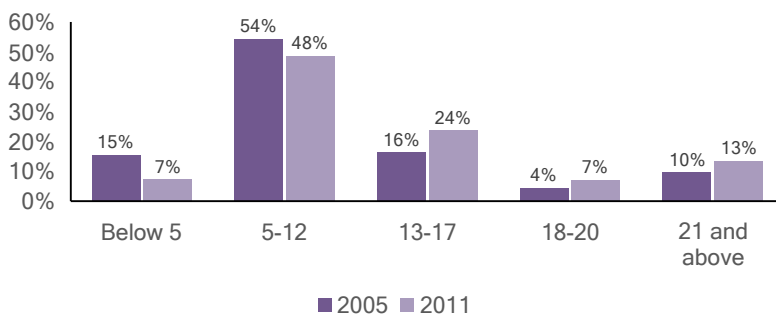

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Chester County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (82%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Chester County were Black or African American (7%), Hispanic/Latino (5%), or Other (3%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. However, the proportion of individuals with autism receiving services who were Asian (3%) is slightly higher than the rest of Pennsylvania (2%). This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Chester County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Chester County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Clarion County

2005

51

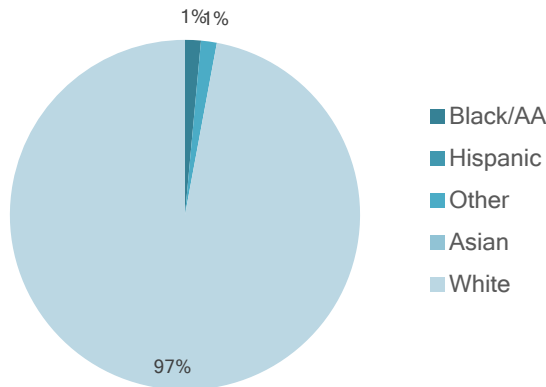

2011

137

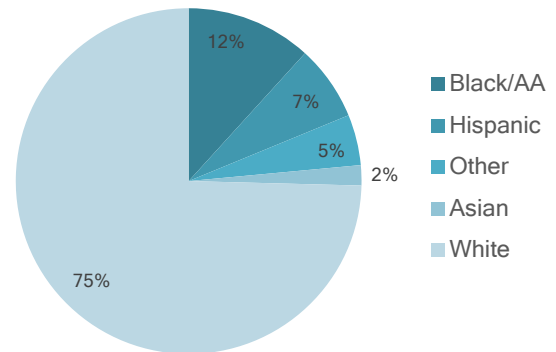

169% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

CLARION COUNTY

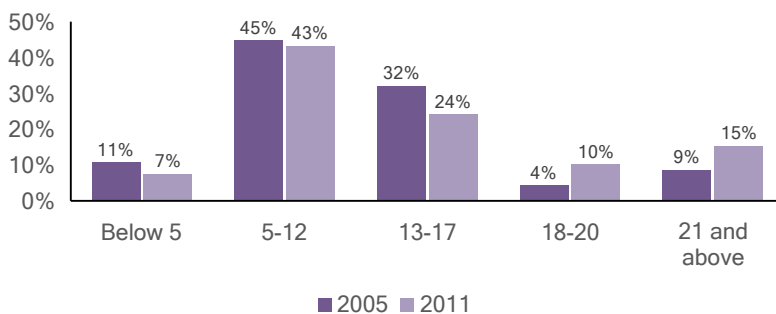

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Clarion County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (97%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Clarion County were Black or African American (2%) or Hispanic/Latino (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Clarion County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Clarion County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Clearfield County

2005

192

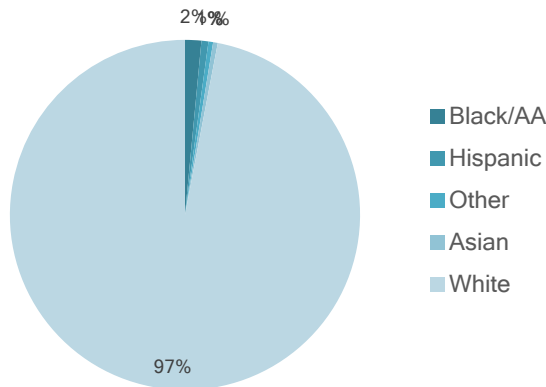

2011

466

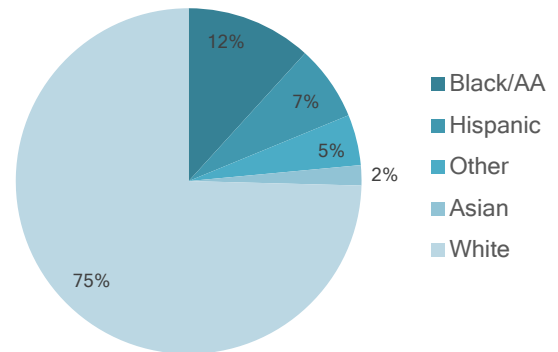

143% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

CLEARFIELD COUNTY

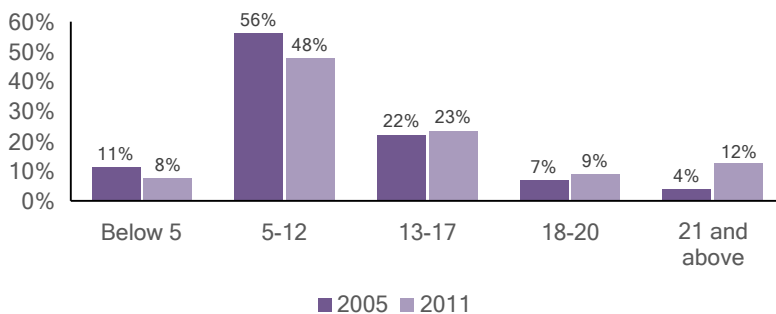

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Clearfield County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (97%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Clearfield County were Black or African American (2%) or Hispanic/Latino (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Clearfield County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Clearfield County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Clinton County

2005

42

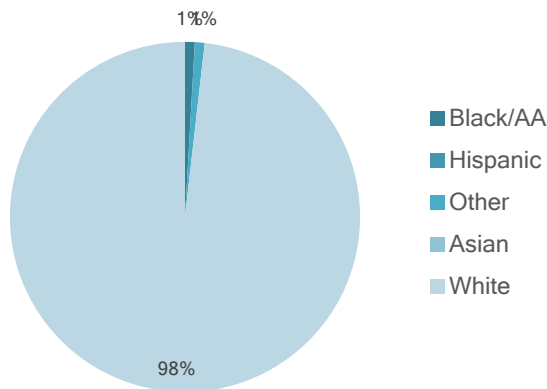

2011

111

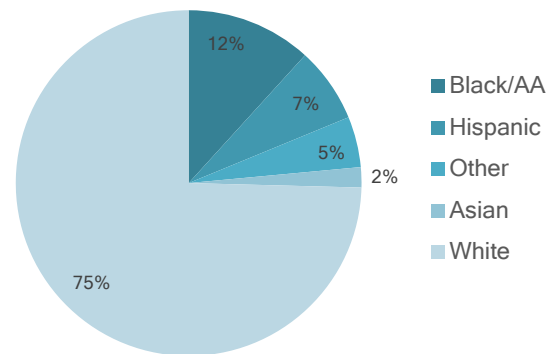

164% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

CLINTON COUNTY

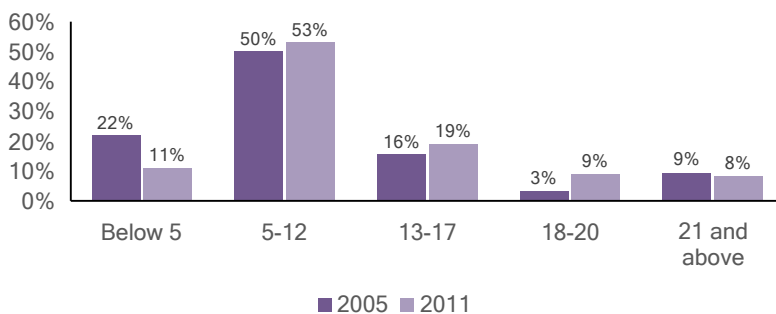

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Clinton County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (98%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Blair County were Black or African American (1%) or Hispanic/Latino (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Clinton County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Clinton County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, there was a drastic increase in individuals 18-20 years old who will be soon be aging into the adult systems of care.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Columbia County

2005

83

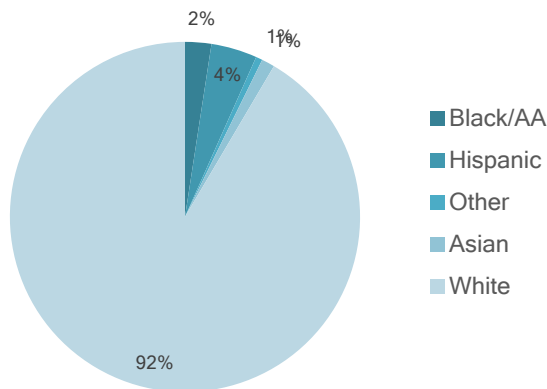

2011

165

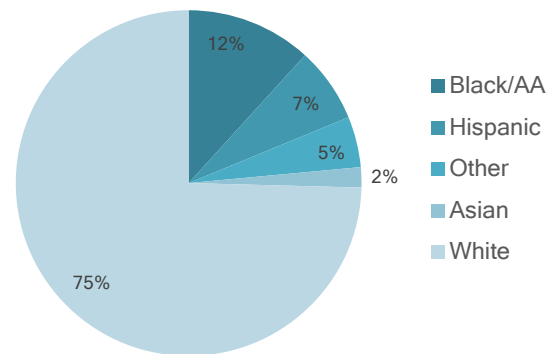

99% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

COLUMBIA COUNTY

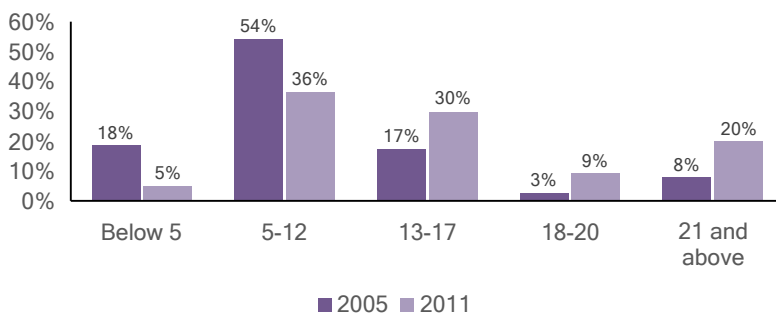

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Columbia County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (92%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Columbia County were Black or African American (2%), Hispanic/Latino (4%), Other (1%), or Asian (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Columbia County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Columbia County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Crawford County

2005

173

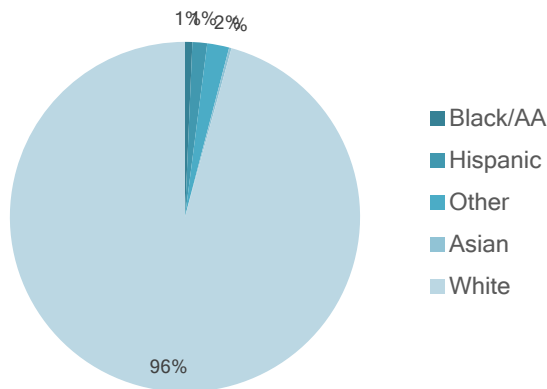

2011

444

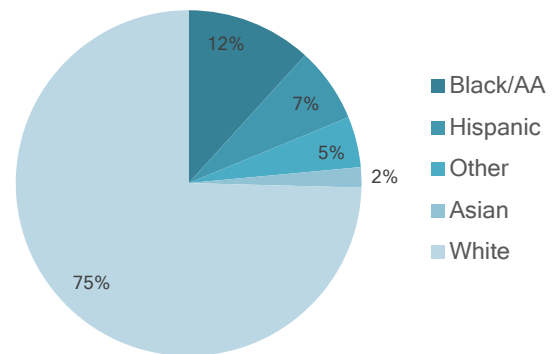

157% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

CRAWFORD COUNTY

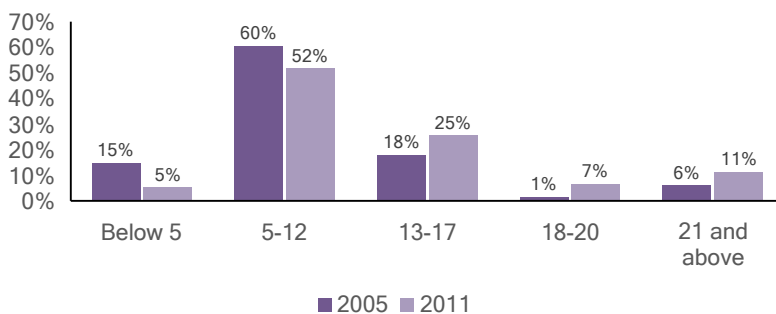

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Crawford County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (96%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Crawford County were Black or African American (1%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Crawford County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Crawford County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Cumberland County

2005

400

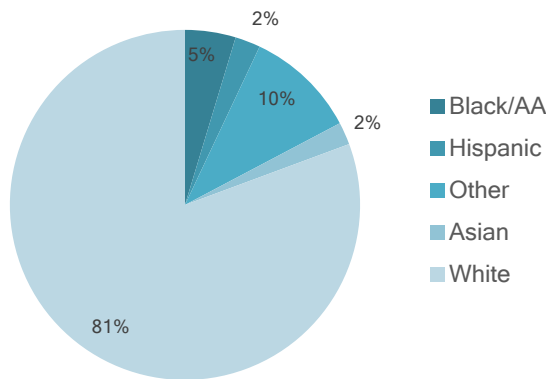

2011

772

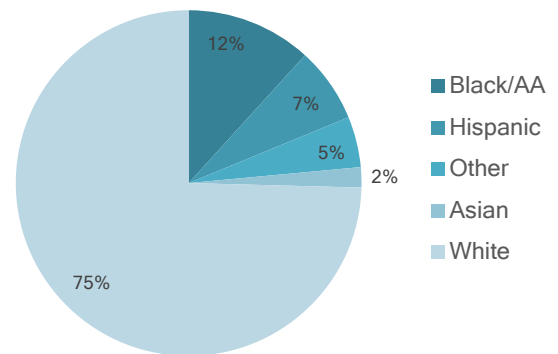

93% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

CUMBERLAND COUNTY

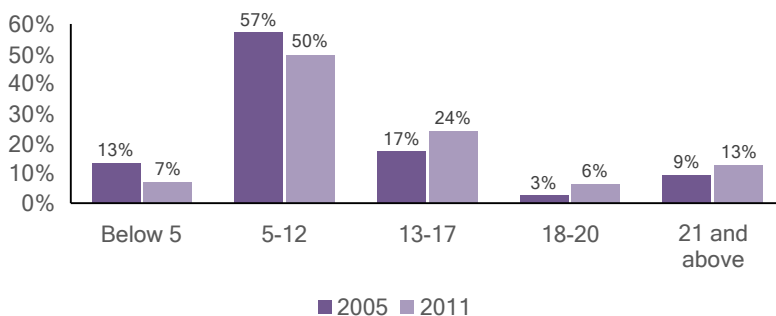

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Cumberland County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (81%). One in 10 individuals with autism receiving services in Cumberland County were Other (10%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Cumberland County were Black or African American (5%), Hispanic/Latino (2%), or Asian (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Cumberland County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Cumberland County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Dauphin County

2005

558

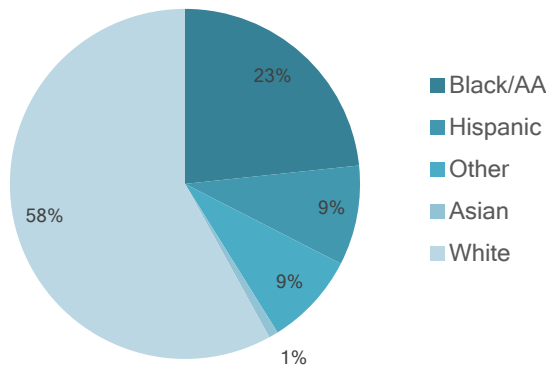

2011

1163

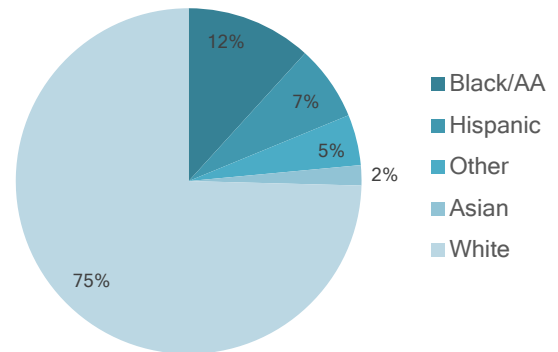

108% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

DAUPHIN COUNTY

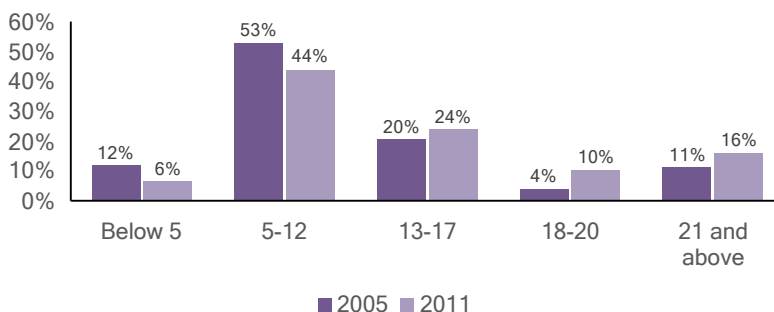

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Dauphin County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (58%). Almost 1 in 5 individuals with autism (23%) in Dauphin County receiving services were Black or African American. A larger proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Dauphin County were Hispanic/Latino (9%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania (7%), but a larger proportion were from an "other" race or ethnicity (9%) compared to 4% in the rest of Pennsylvania. There is a smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services who were Asian (1%) compared to the rest of Pennsylvania (2%). This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Dauphin County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Dauphin County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Delaware County

2005

791

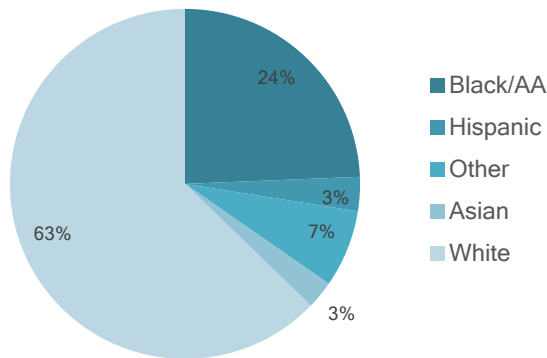

2011

1558

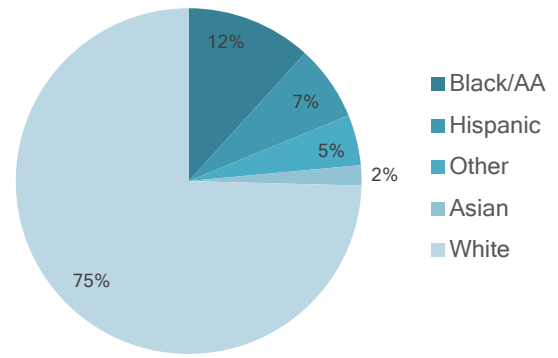

97% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

DELAWARE COUNTY

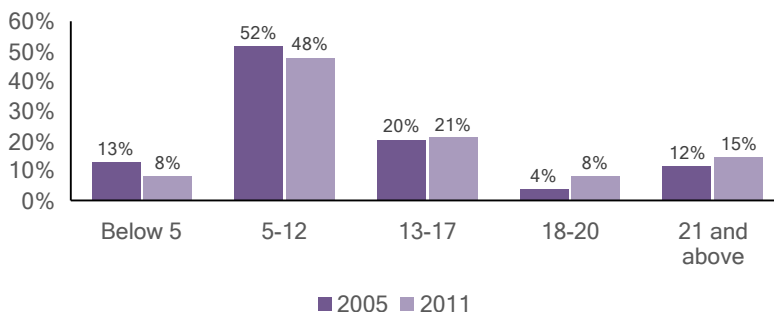

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Delaware County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (63%). About 1 in 4 individuals with autism receiving services in Delaware County were African American (24%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Delaware County were Hispanic/Latino (3%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania, but a larger proportion were from an "other" race or ethnicity (5% in) and Asian (7%) race/ethnicity in Delaware County compared to rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Delaware County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Delaware County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Elk County

2005

62

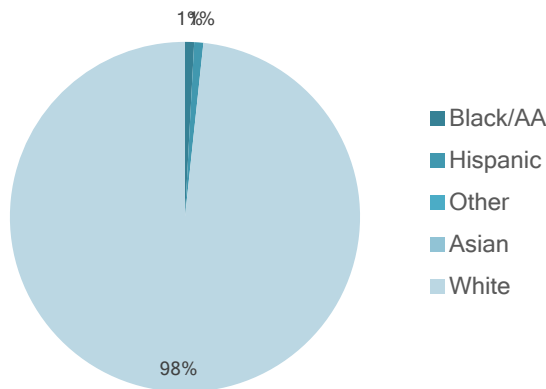

2011

119

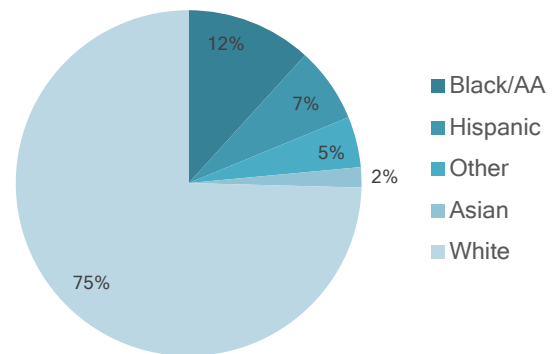

92% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

ELK COUNTY

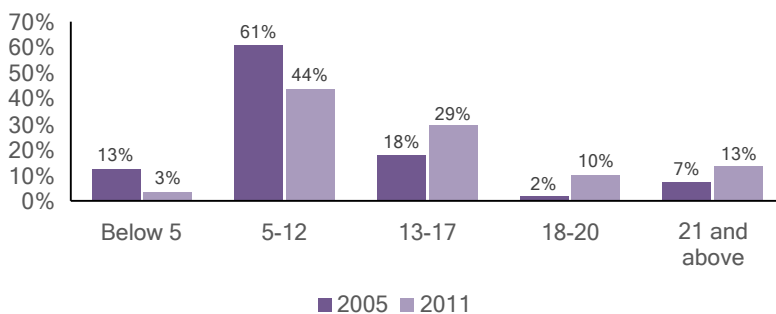

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Elk County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (98%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Elk County were Black or African American (1%) or Hispanic/Latino (1%), when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Elk County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Elk County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Erie County

2005

502

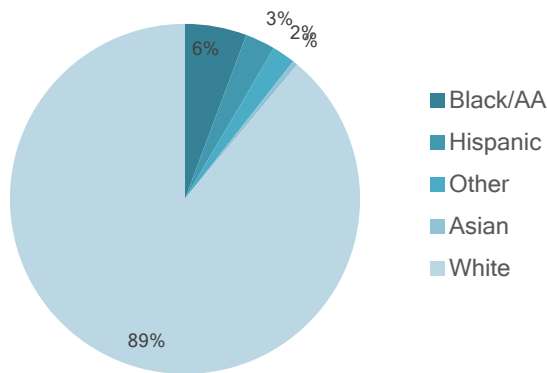

2011

1263

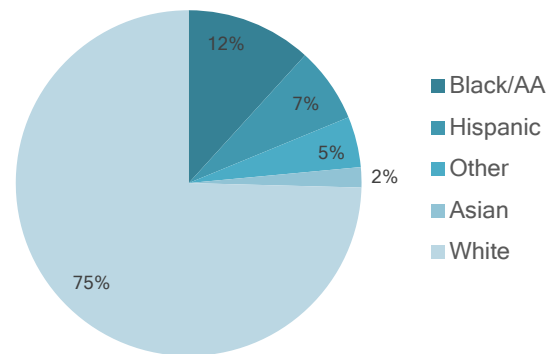

152% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

ERIE COUNTY

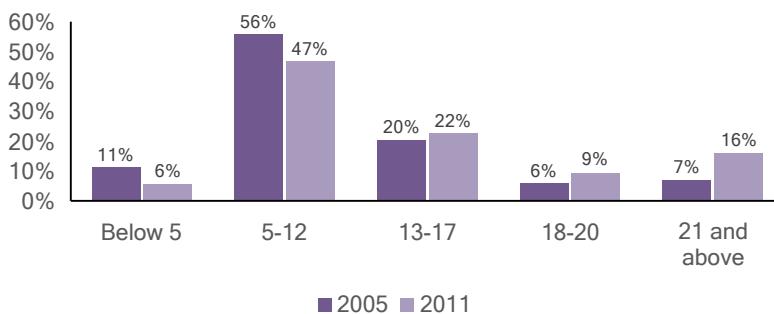

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Erie County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (89%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Erie County were Black or African American (6%), Hispanic/Latino (3%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Erie County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Erie County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Fayette County

2005

208

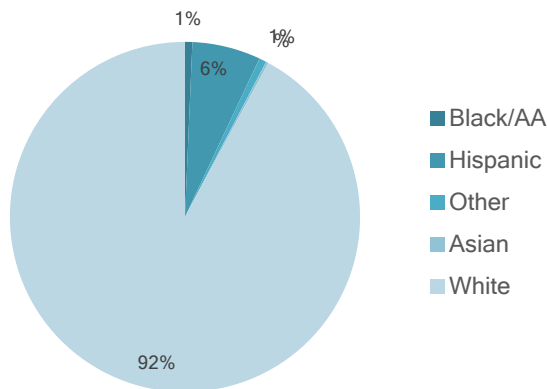

2011

452

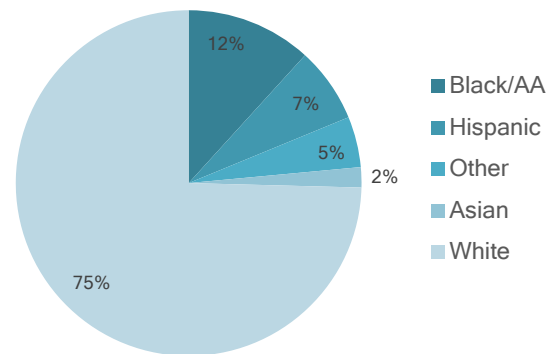

117% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

FAYETTE COUNTY

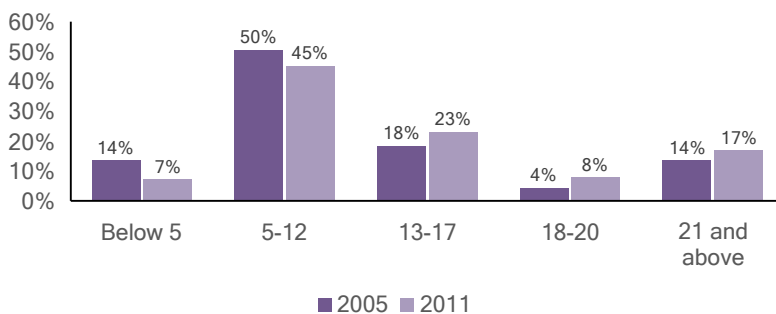

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Fayette County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (91%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Fayette County were Black or African American (6%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Fayette County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Fayette County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Forest County

2005

<10

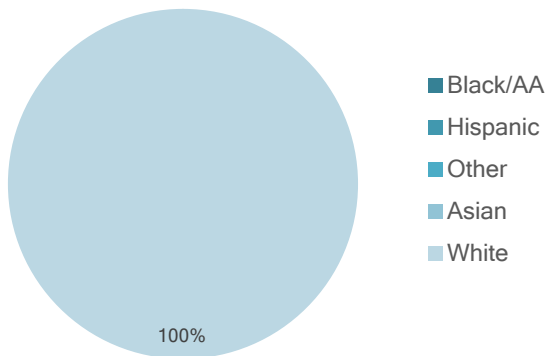

2011

22

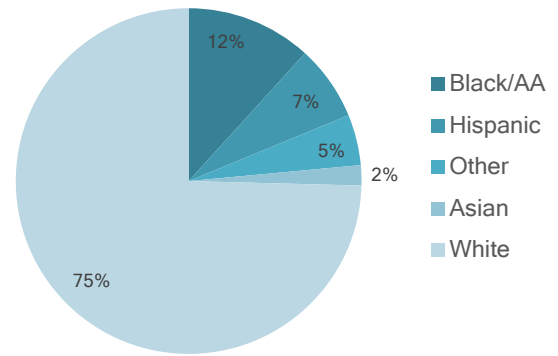

175% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

FOREST COUNTY

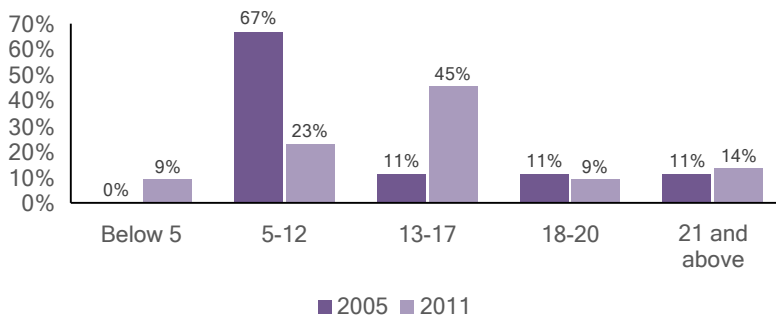

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Forest County, all individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (100%). No proportions of individuals with autism receiving services in Forest County were Black or African American (0%), Hispanic/Latino (0%), or Other (0%). This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Forest County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Forest County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Franklin County

2005

239

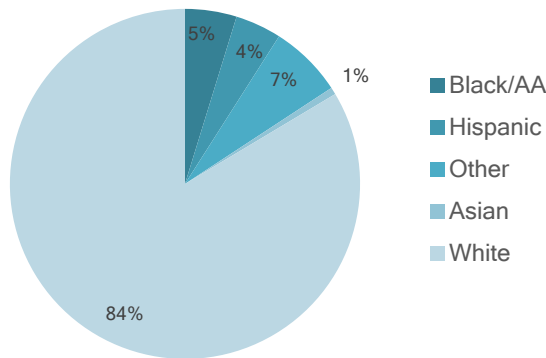

2011

610

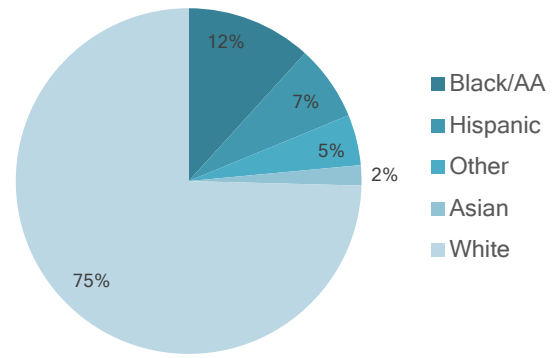

155% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

FRANKLIN COUNTY

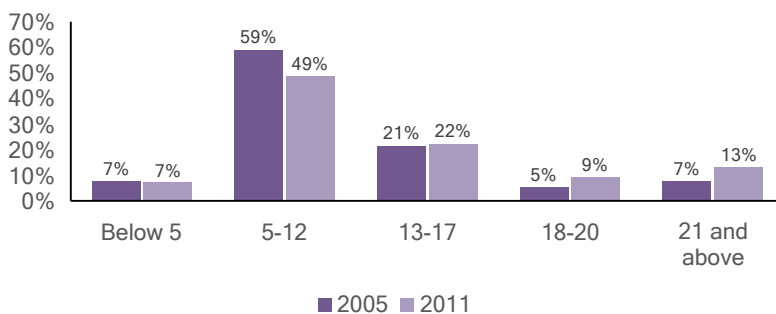

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Franklin County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (83%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Franklin County were Black or African American (5%), Hispanic/Latino (4%), but a larger proportion were Other (7%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Franklin County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Franklin County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Fulton County

2005

27

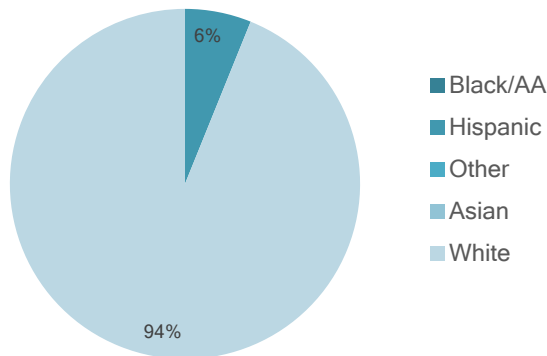

2011

49

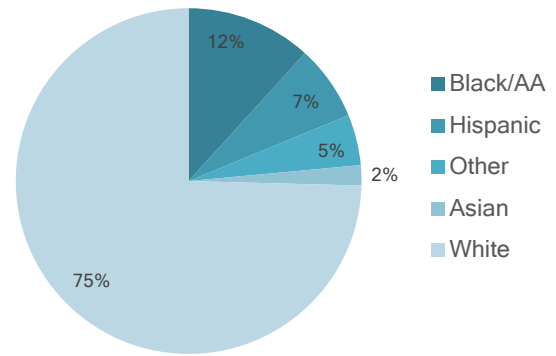

81% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

FULTON COUNTY

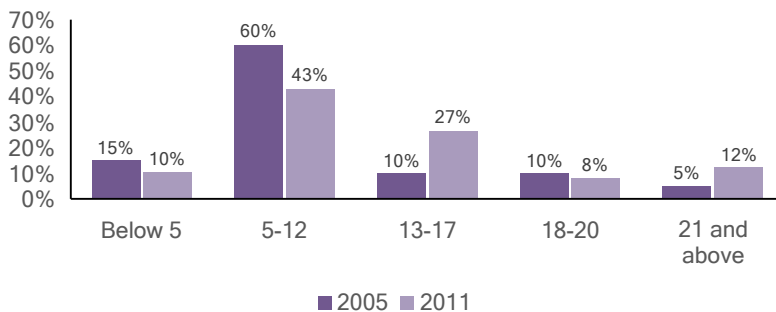

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Fulton County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (94%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Fulton County were Black or African American (6%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Fulton County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Fulton County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Greene County

2005

68

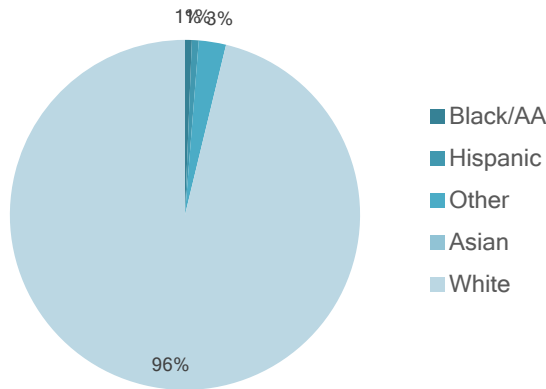

2011

159

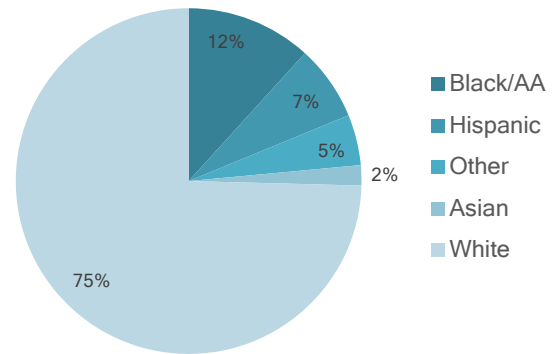

134% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

GREENE COUNTY

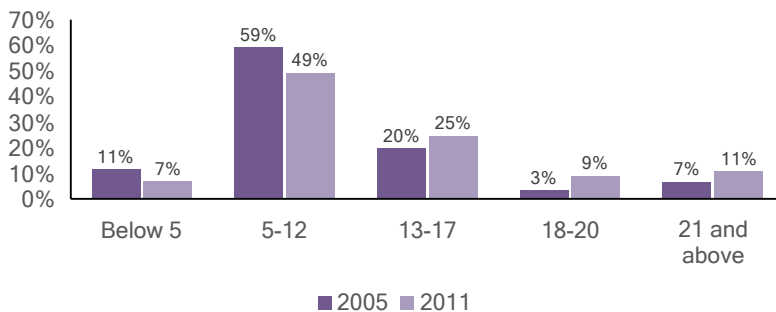

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Greene County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (96%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Greene County were Black or African American (1%), Hispanic/Latino (0.6%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Greene County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Greene County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Huntingdon County

2005

94

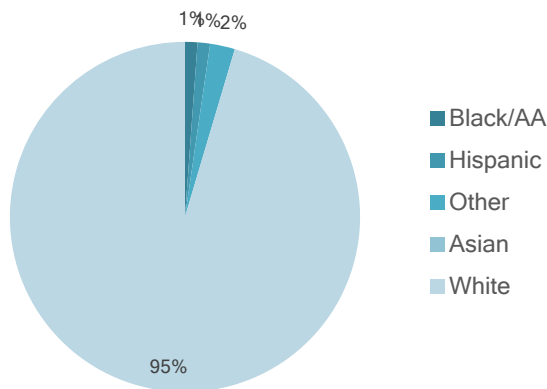

2011

174

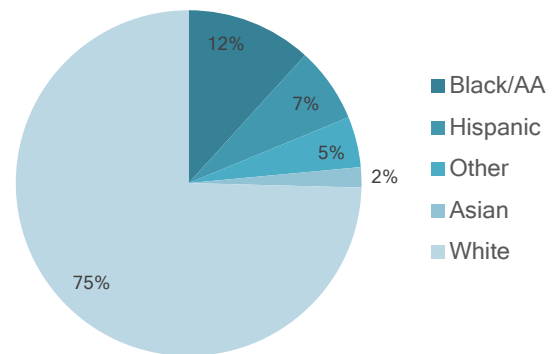

85% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

HUNTINGDON COUNTY

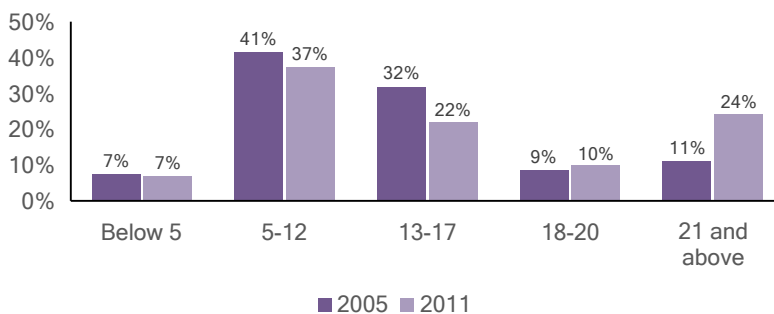

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Huntingdon County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (96%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Huntingdon County were Black or African American (1%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Huntingdon County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Huntingdon County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Indiana County

2005

121

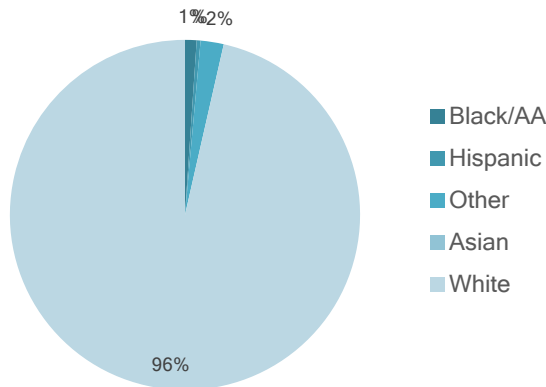

2011

282

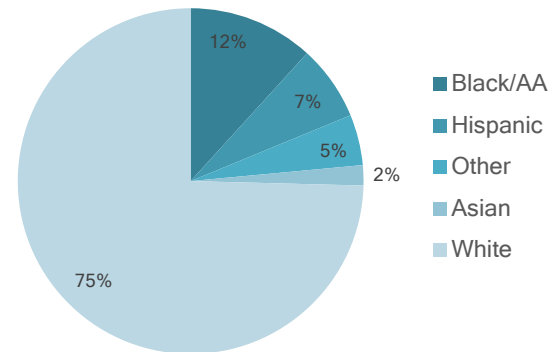

133% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

INDIANA COUNTY

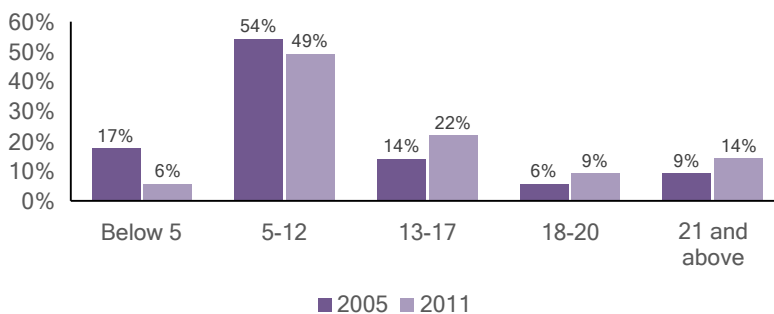

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Indiana County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (97%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Indiana County were Black or African American (0.6%), Hispanic/Latino (0.4%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Indiana County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Indiana County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Jefferson County

2005

96

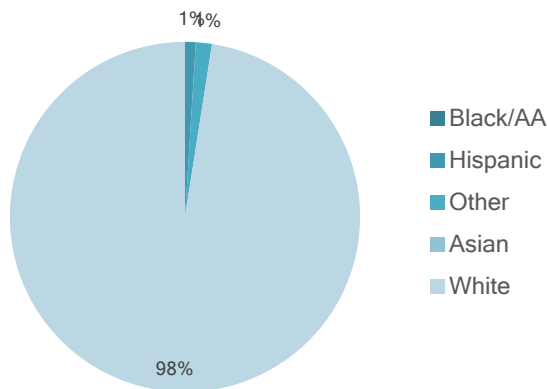

2011

202

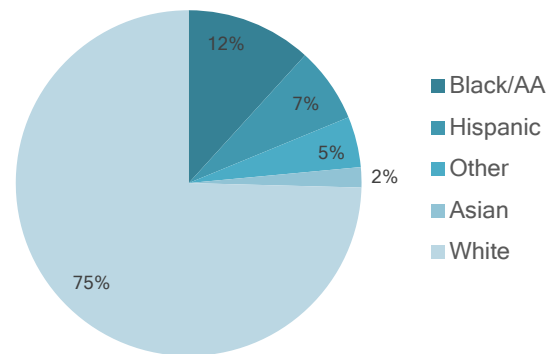

110% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

JEFFERSON COUNTY

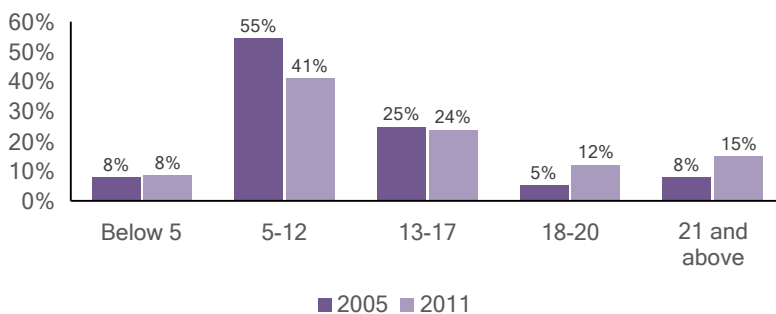

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Jefferson County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (99%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Jefferson County were Hispanic/Latino (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Jefferson County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Jefferson County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Juniata County

2005

23

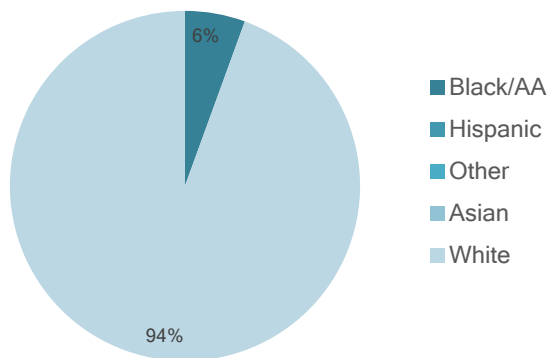

2011

54

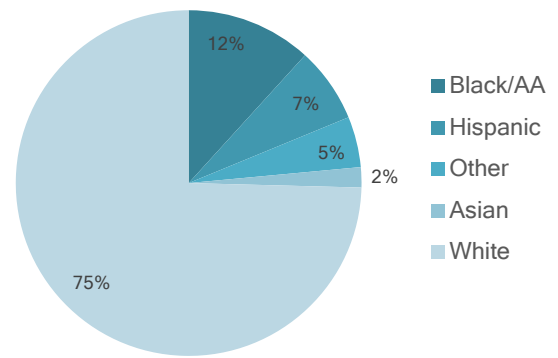

135% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

JUNIATA COUNTY

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Juniata County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (96%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Juniata County were Black or African American (6%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Juniata County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Adams County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Lackawanna County

2005

330

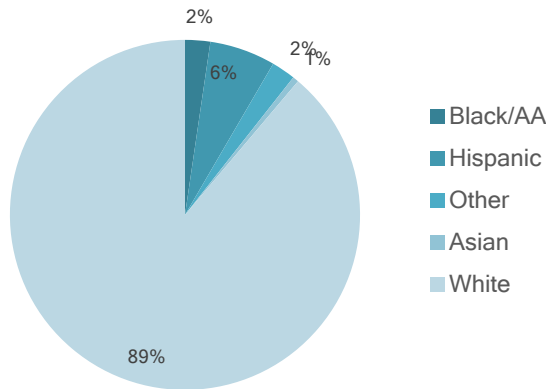

2011

905

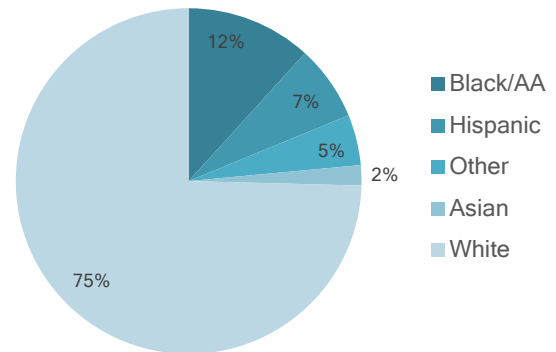

174% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

LACKAWANNA COUNTY

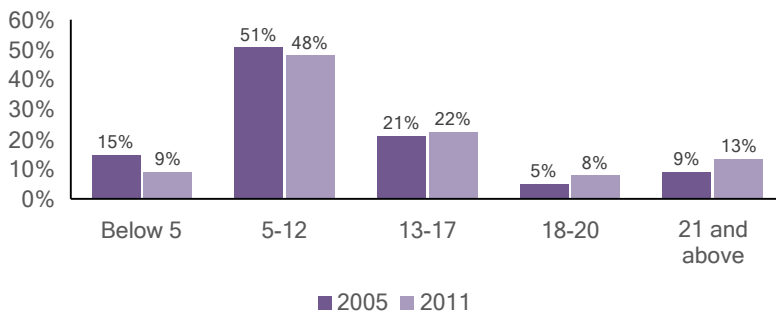

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Lackawanna County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (89%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Lackawanna County were Black or African American (2%), Hispanic/Latino (6%), Other (2%), or Asian (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Lackawanna County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Lackawanna County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Lancaster County

2005

736

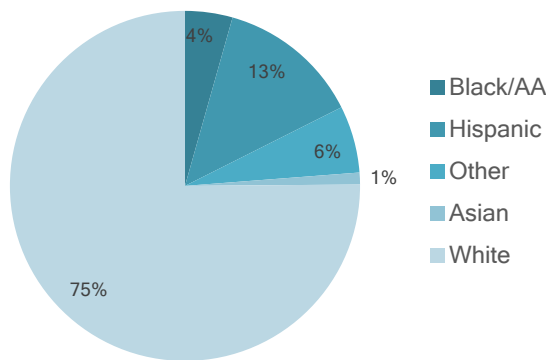

2011

1828

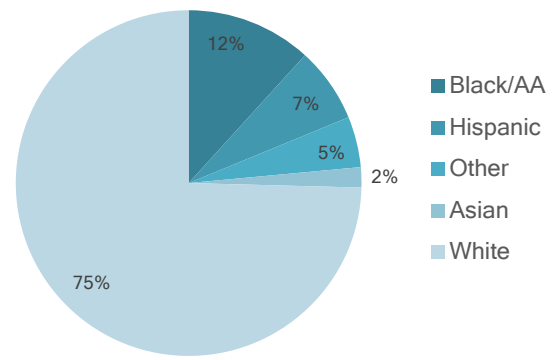

148% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

LANCASTER COUNTY

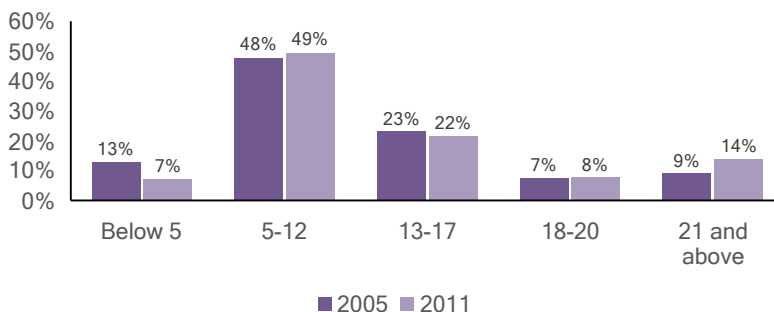

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Lancaster County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (75%). About 1 in 8 individuals with autism receiving services in Lancaster County were Hispanic/Latino (13%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Lancaster County were Black or African American (5%) or Asian (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania, but a larger proportion were from an "other" race or ethnicity (6%) in Lancaster County compared to 4% in the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Lancaster County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Lancaster County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Lawrence County

2005

161

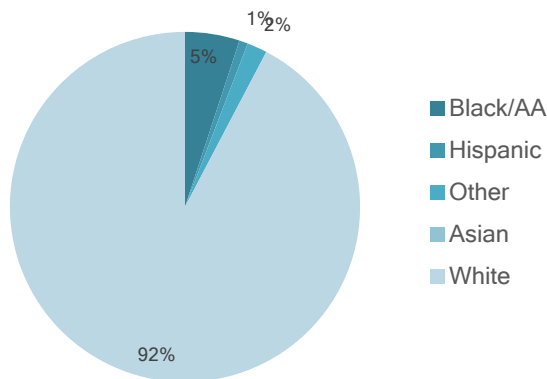

2011

378

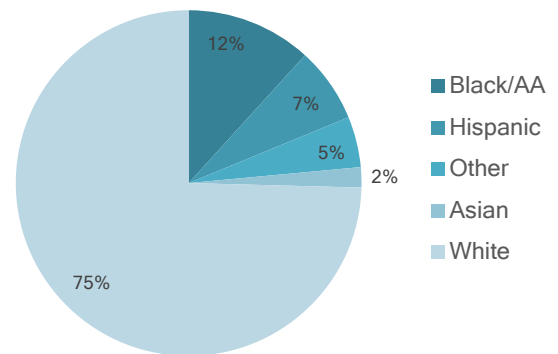

135% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

LAWRENCE COUNTY

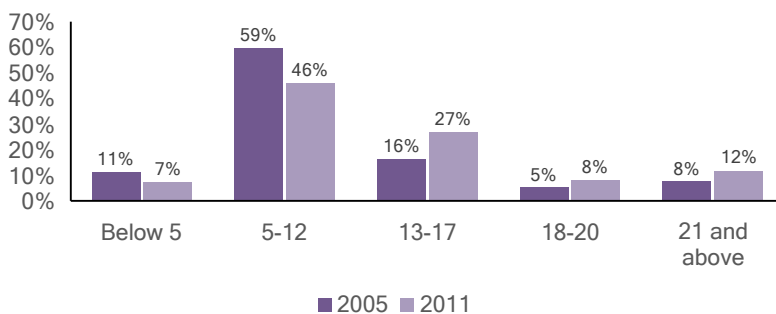

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Lawrence County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (92%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Lawrence County were Black or African American (5%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Lawrence County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Lawrence County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Lebanon County

2005

242

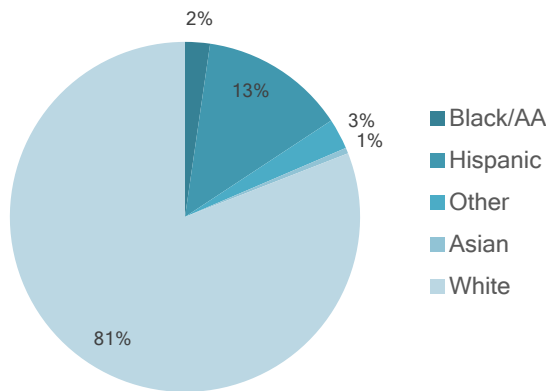

2011

567

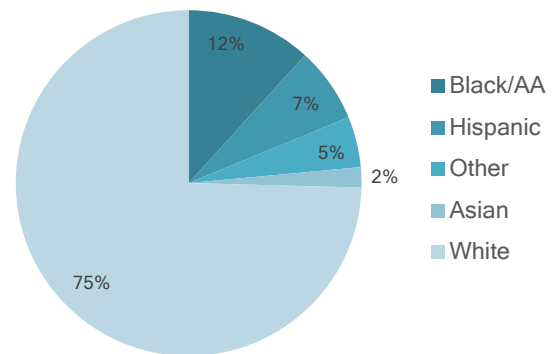

134% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

LEBANON COUNTY

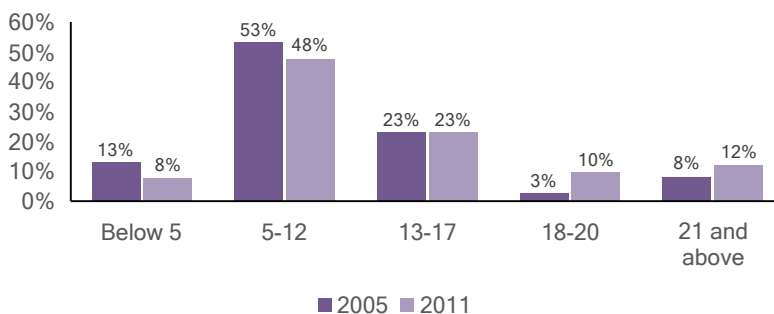

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Lebanon County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (81%). About 1 in 8 individuals with autism receiving services in Lebanon County were Hispanic/Latino (13%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Lebanon County were Black or African American (2%), Asian (1%), or Other (3%) compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Lebanon County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Lebanon County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Lehigh County

2005

519

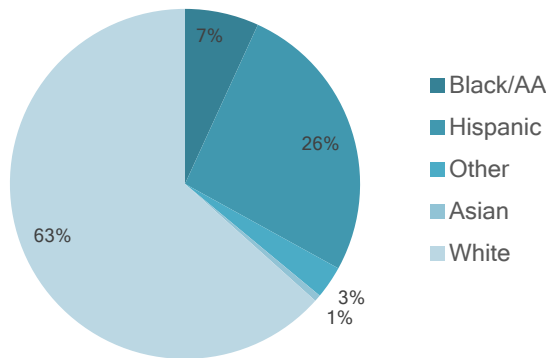

2011

1468

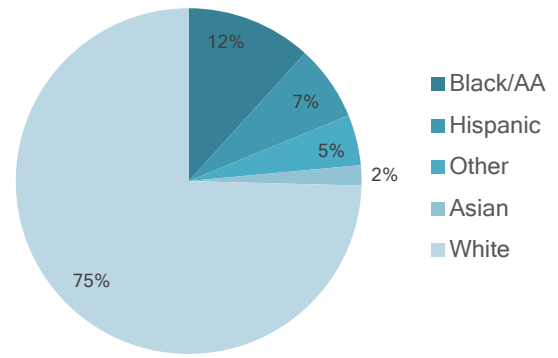

183% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

LEHIGH COUNTY

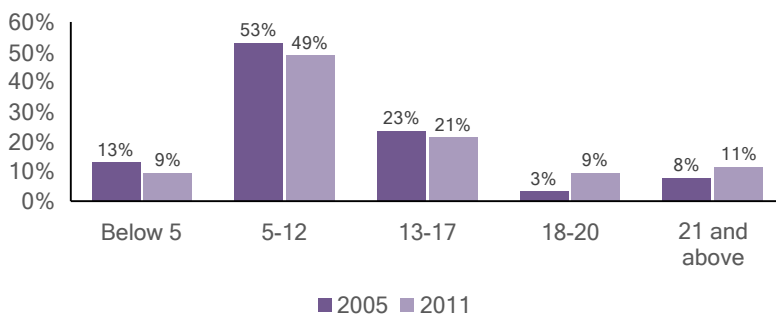

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Lehigh County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (63%). About 1 in 4 individuals with autism receiving services in Lehigh County were Hispanic/Latino (26%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Lehigh County were Black or African American (7%), Asian (1%), or Other (3%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Lehigh County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Lehigh County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Luzerne County

2005

496

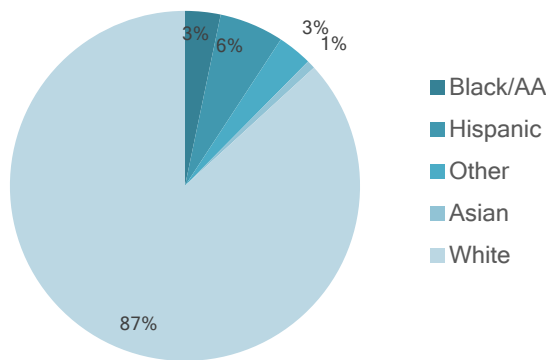

2011

1161

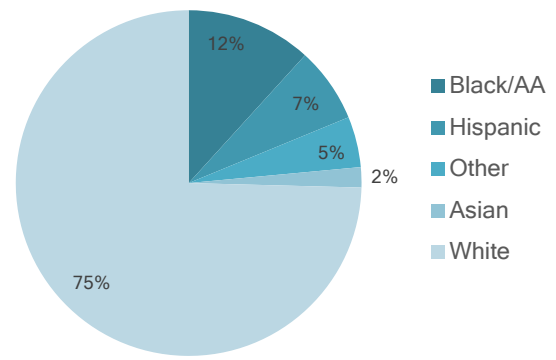

134% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

LUZERNE COUNTY

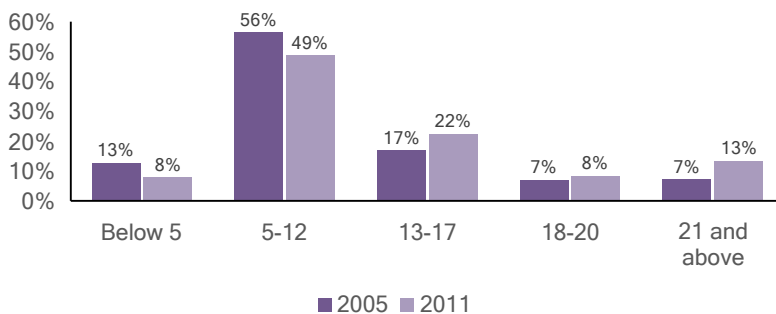

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Luzerne County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (87%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Luzerne County were Black or African American (3%), Hispanic/Latino (6%), Other (3%), or Asian (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Luzerne County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Luzerne County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Lycoming County

2005

120

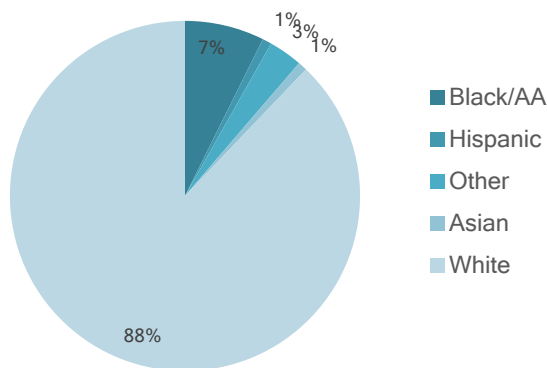

2011

355

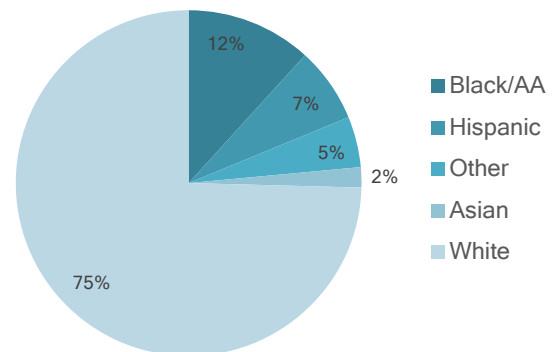

196% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

LYCOMING COUNTY

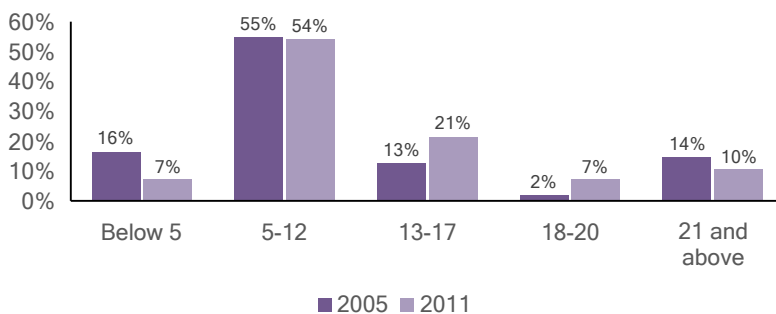

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Lycoming County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (88%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Lycoming County were Black or African American (7%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), Other (3%), or Asian (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Lycoming County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Lycoming County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, there was a drastic increase in individuals 13-17 and 18-20 years old who will be soon be aging into the adult systems of care.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

McKean County

2005

82

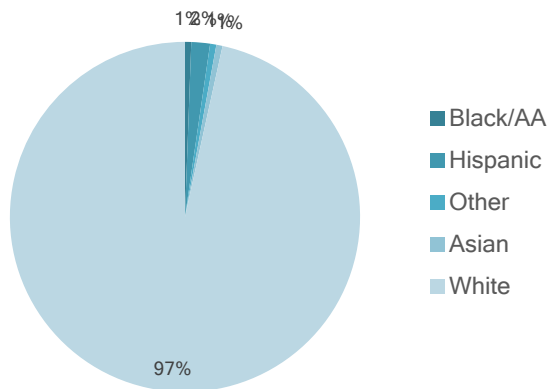

2011

175

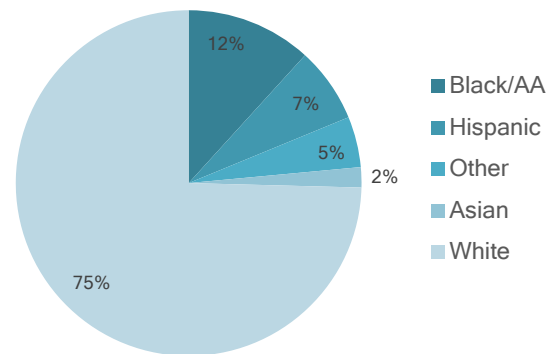

113% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

MCKEAN COUNTY

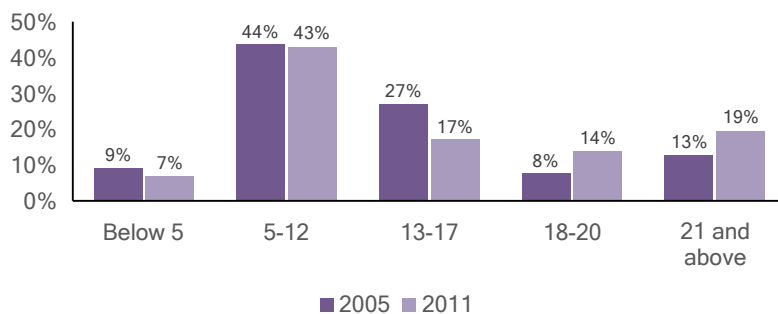

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In McKean County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (96%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in McKean County were Black or African American (2%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), or Other (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in McKean County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In McKean County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Mercer County

2005

279

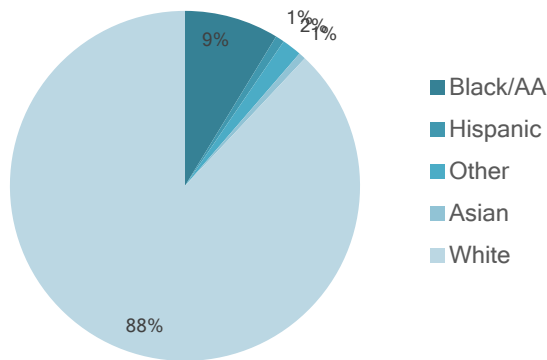

2011

608

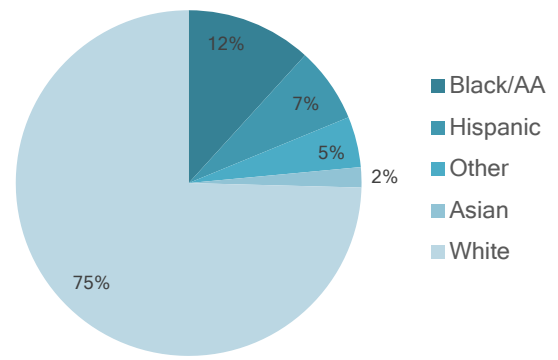

118% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

MERCER COUNTY

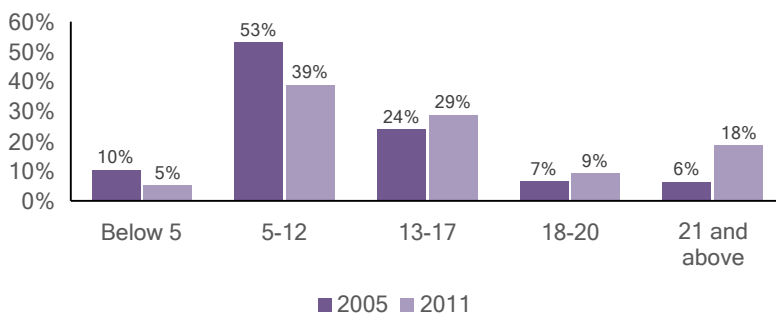

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Mercer County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (88%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Mercer County were Black or African American (9%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Mercer County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Mercer County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Mifflin County

2005

77

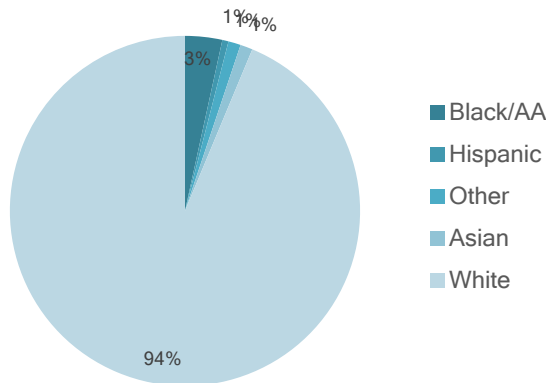

2011

175

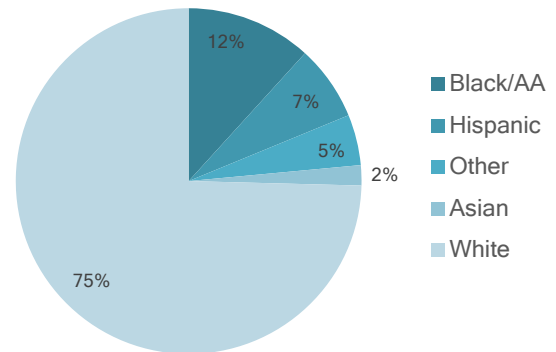

127% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

MIFFLIN COUNTY

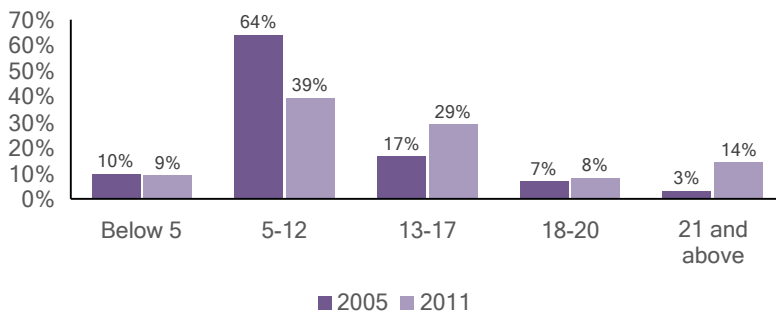

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Mifflin County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (94%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Mifflin County were Black or African American (3%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), Asian (1%), or Other (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Mifflin County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Mifflin County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Monroe County

2005

370

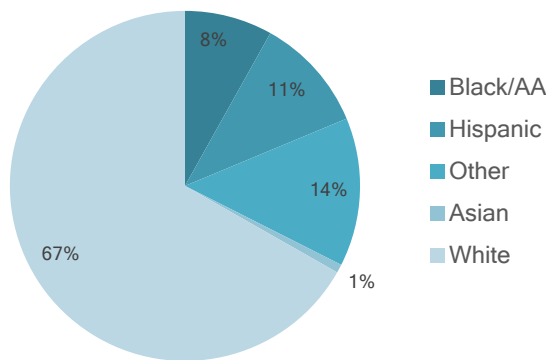

2011

642

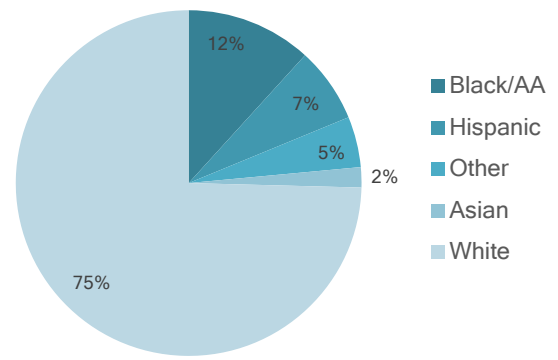

74% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

MONROE COUNTY

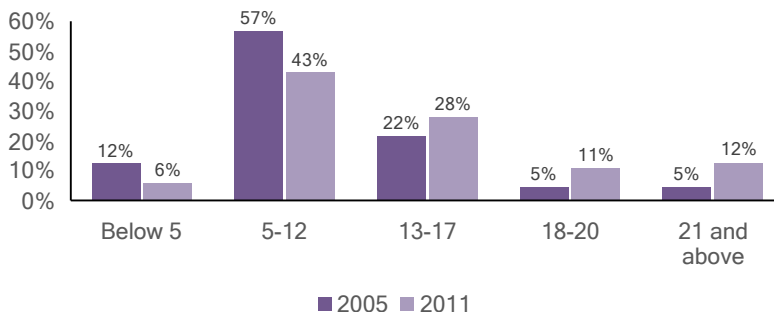

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Monroe County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (67%). About 1 in 10 individuals with autism receiving services in Monroe County were Hispanic/Latino (10%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Monroe County were Black or African American (8%) or Asian (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania, but a larger proportion were from an "other" race or ethnicity (14%) in Monroe County compared to 4% in the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Monroe County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Monroe County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Montgomery County

2005

1109

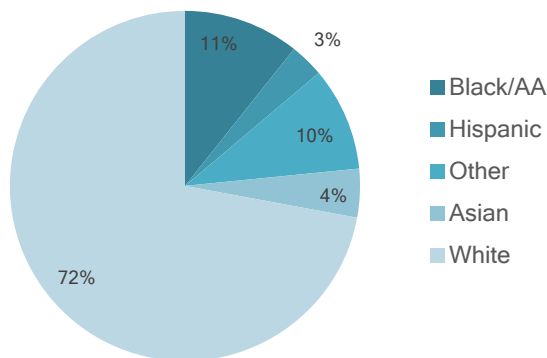

2011

1691

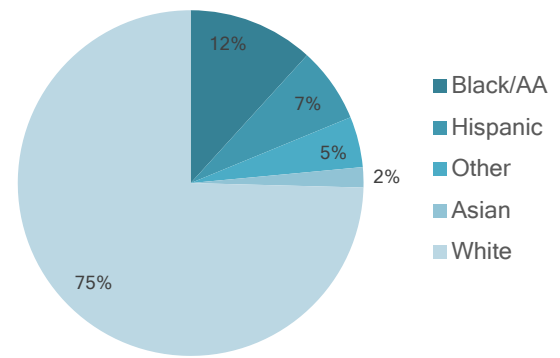

52% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

MONTGOMERY COUNTY

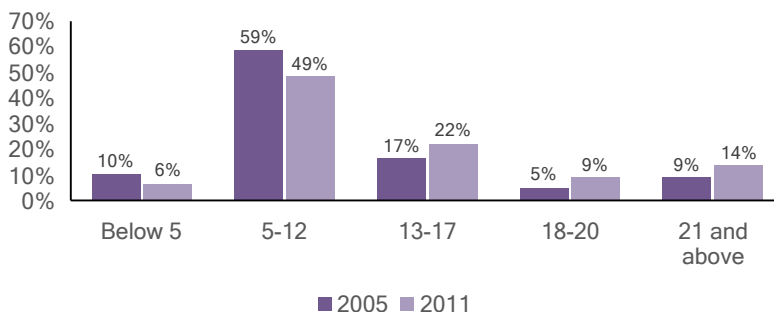

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Montgomery County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (72%). About 1 in 10 individuals with autism receiving services in Montgomery County were Black or African American (11%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Montgomery County were Hispanic/Latino (3%) or "other" (4%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania, but a larger proportion were from an "other" race or ethnicity (10%) in Montgomery County compared to 4% in the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Montgomery County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Montgomery County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Montour County

2005

20

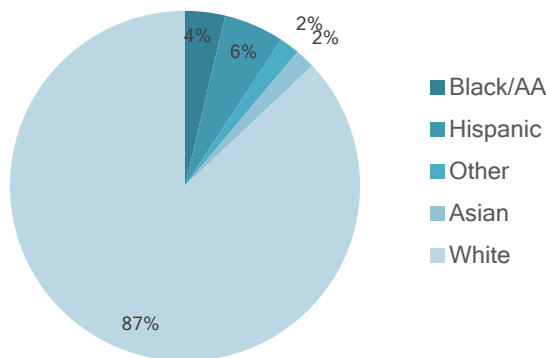

2011

54

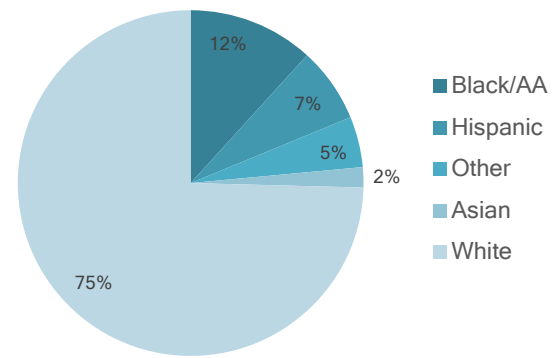

170% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

MONTOUR COUNTY

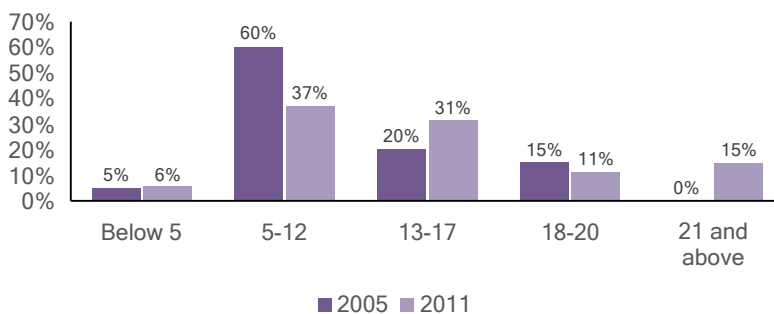

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Montour County, most individuals with autism receiving services were Asian (87%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Montour County were White/Caucasian (2%), Black or African American (4%), Hispanic/Latino (5%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Montour County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Montour County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Northampton County

2005

414

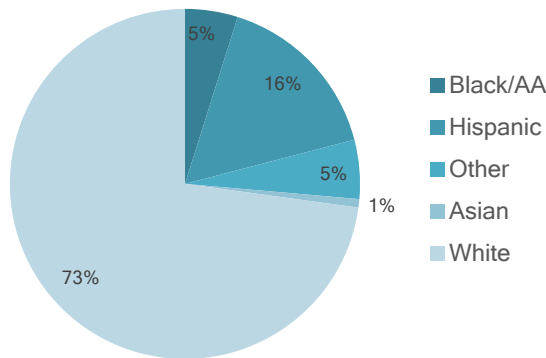

2011

1029

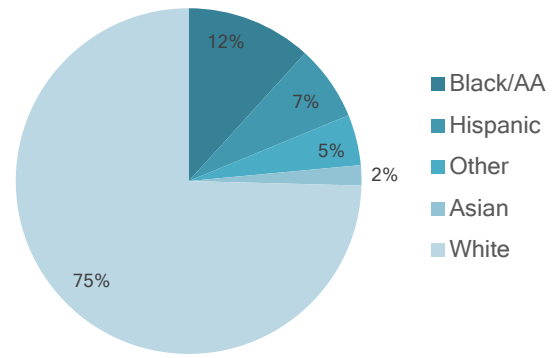

149% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

NORTHAMPTON COUNTY

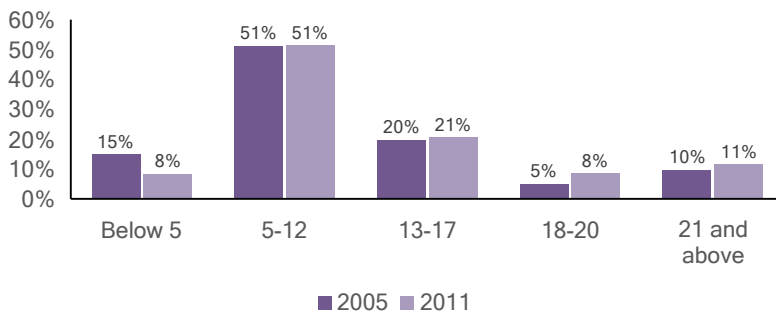

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Northampton County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (74%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Northampton County were Black or African American (13%), Hispanic/Latino (7%), Asian (2%), or Other (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Northampton County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Northampton County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Northumberland County

2005

131

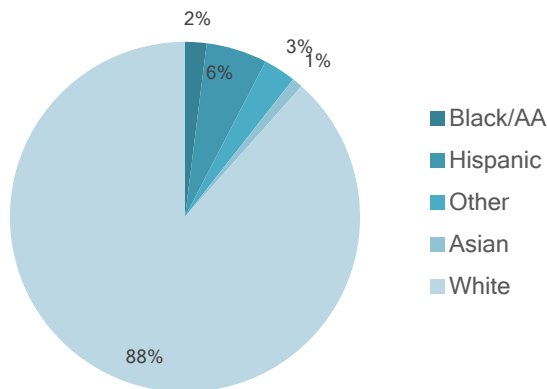

2011

302

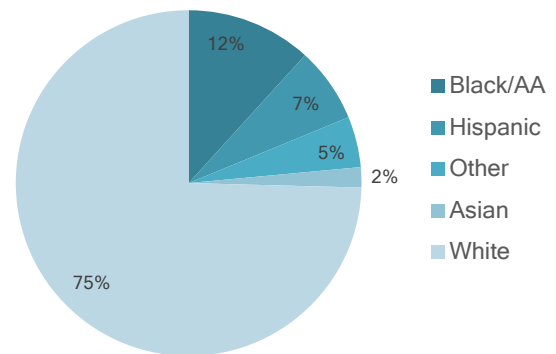

131% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

NORTHUMBERLAND COUNTY

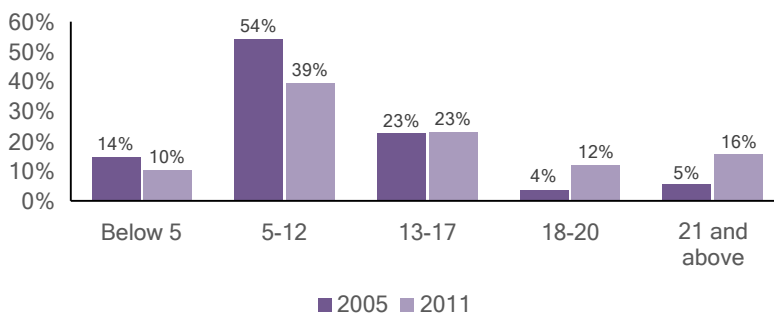

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Northumberland County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (88%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Northumberland County were Black or African American (2%), Hispanic/Latino (6%), Asian (1%), or Other (3%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Northumberland County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Northumberland County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Perry County

2005

56

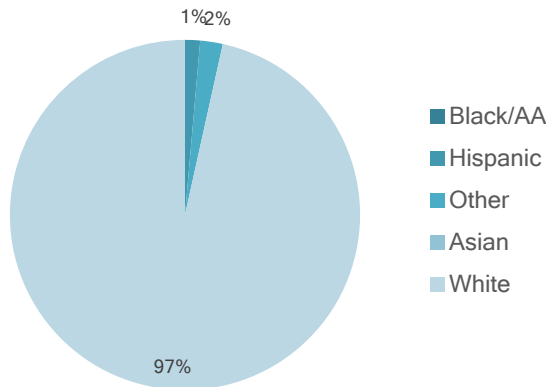

2011

144

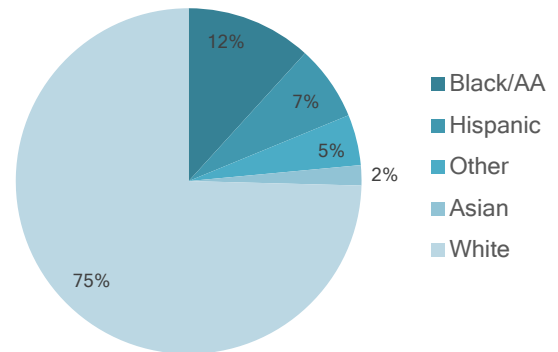

157% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

PERRY COUNTY

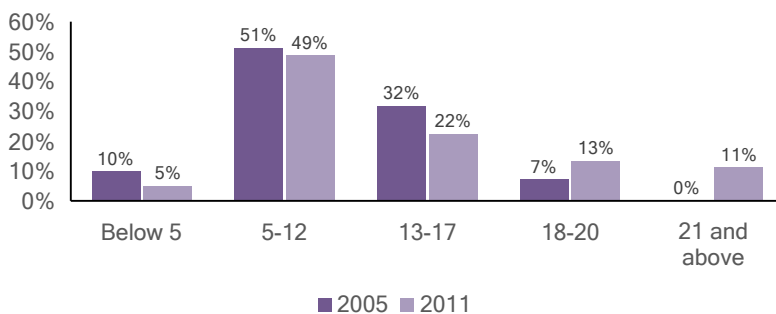

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Perry County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (97%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Perry County were Hispanic/Latino (1%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Perry County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Perry County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Philadelphia County

2005

2142

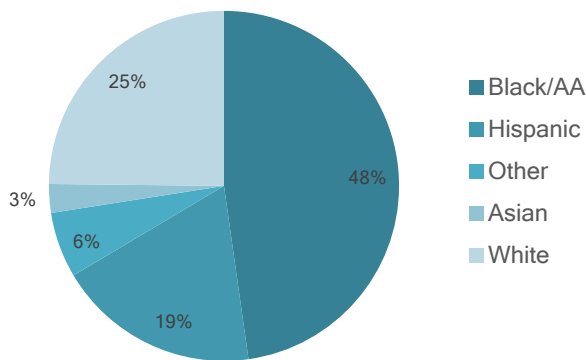

2011

4617

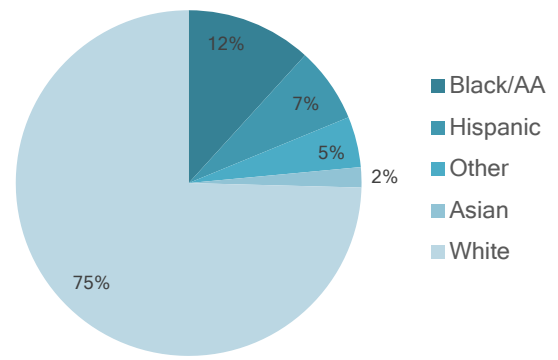

116% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

PHILADELPHIA COUNTY

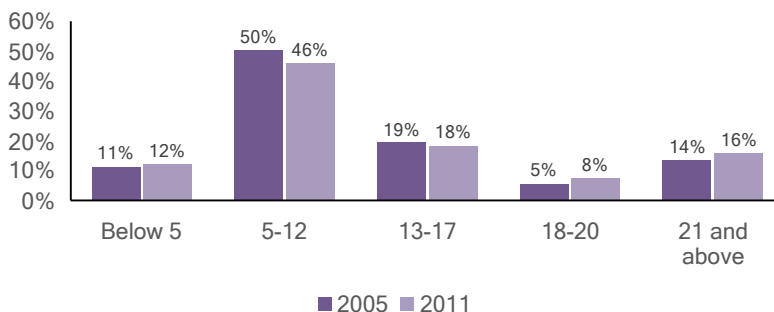

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Philadelphia County, most individuals with autism receiving services were Black or African American (48%). About 1 in 4 individuals with autism receiving services in Philadelphia County were White/Caucasian (25%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Philadelphia County were Asian (2%) or "other" (5%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania, but a larger proportion were from Hispanic/Latino (19%) in Philadelphia County compared to 7% in the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Philadelphia County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Philadelphia County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Pike County

2005

133

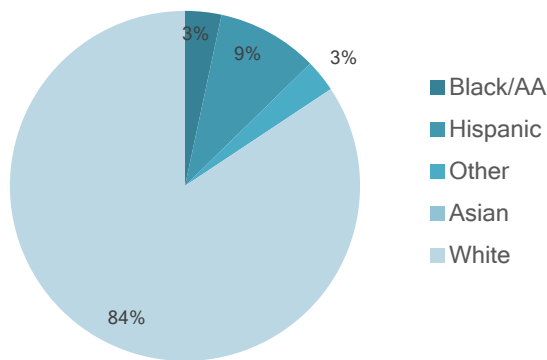

2011

268

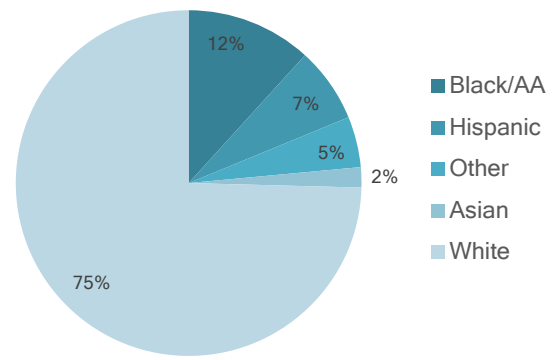

102% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

PIKE COUNTY

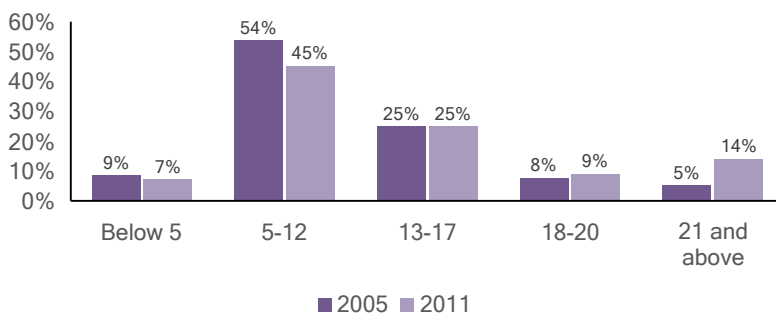

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Pike County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (84%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Pike County were Black or African American (4%), Hispanic/Latino (9%), or Other (3%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Pike County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Pike County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Potter County

2005

26

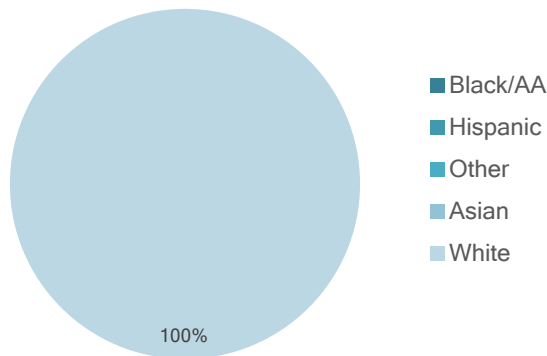

2011

59

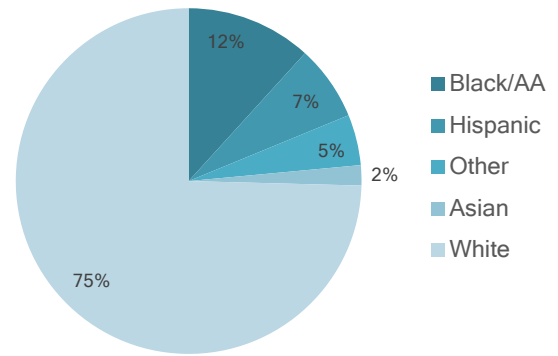

127% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

POTTER COUNTY

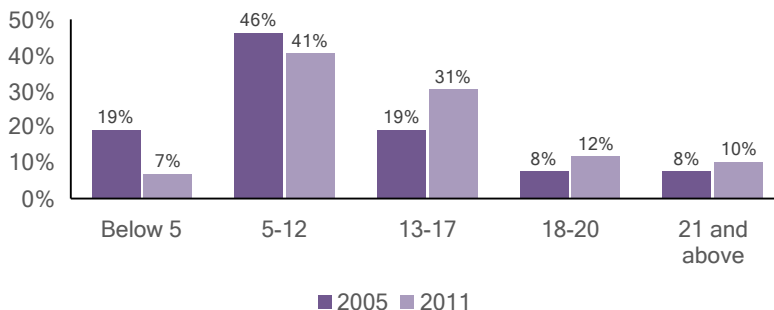

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Potter County, 100% of the population is classified as White/Caucasian. This county had no other reported races receiving services. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Potter County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Potter County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Schuylkill County

2005

255

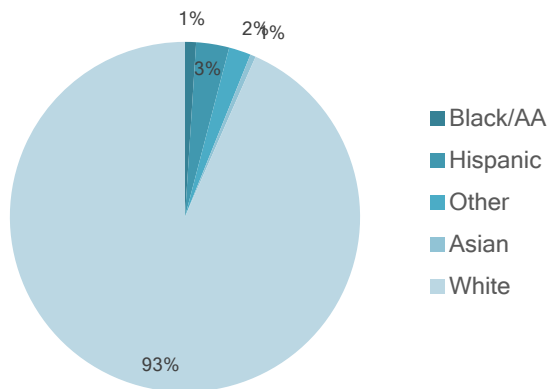

2011

590

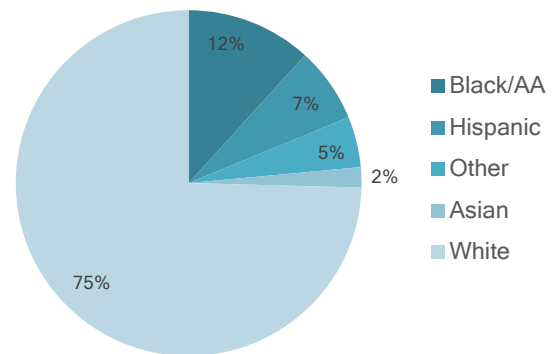

131% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

SCHUYLKILL COUNTY

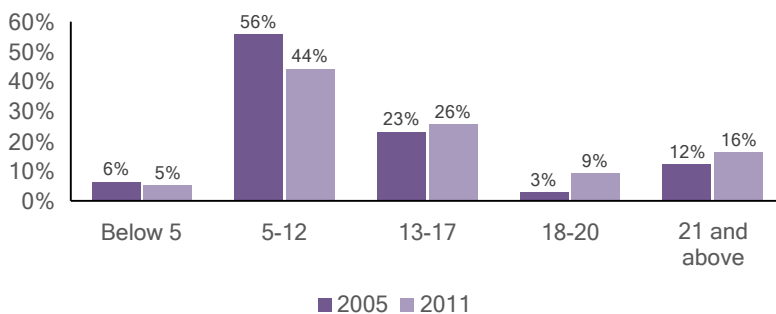

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Schuylkill County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (93%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Schuylkill County were Black or African American (1%), Hispanic/Latino (3%), Asian (1%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Schuylkill County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Schuylkill County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Snyder County

2005

58

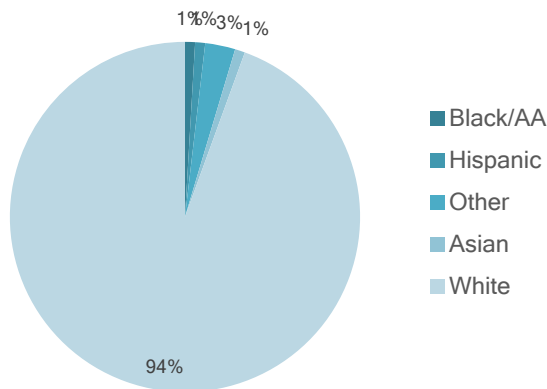

2011

108

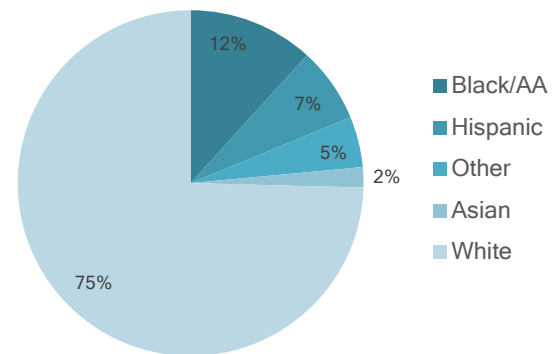

86% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

SNYDER COUNTY

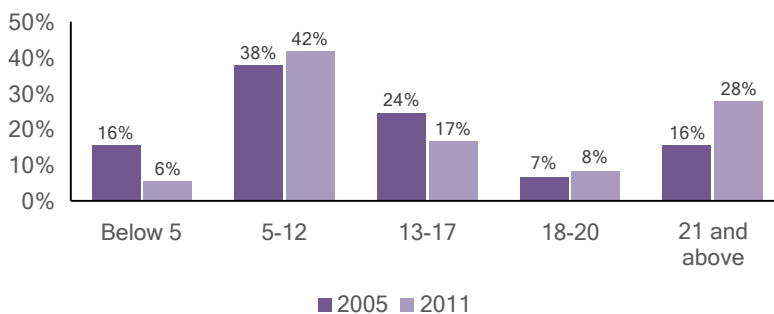

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Snyder County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (84%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Snyder County were Black or African American (5%), Hispanic/Latino (6%), Asian (1%), or Other (4%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Snyder County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Snyder County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Somerset County

2005

126

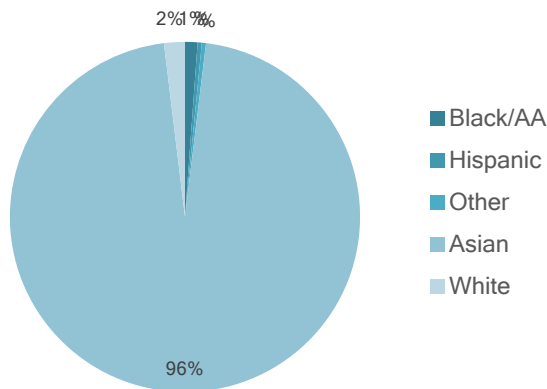

2011

260

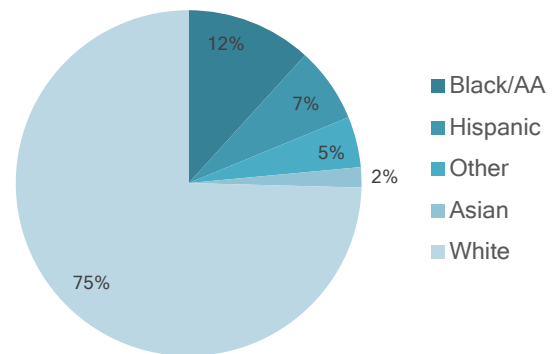

106% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

SOMERSET COUNTY

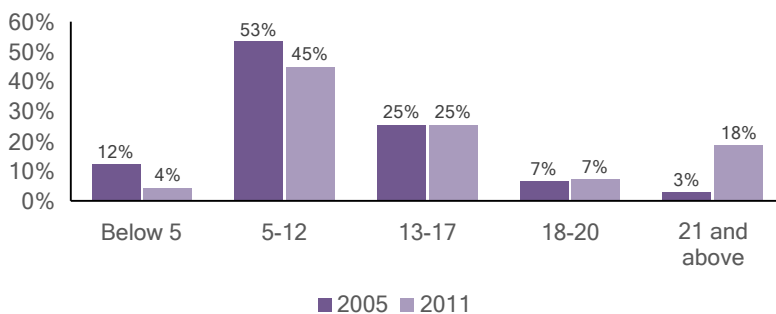

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Somerset County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (96%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Somerset County were Black or African American (1%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Somerset County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Somerset County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Sullivan County

2005

<10

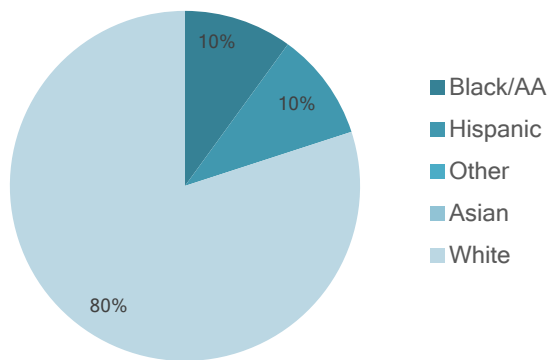

2011

10

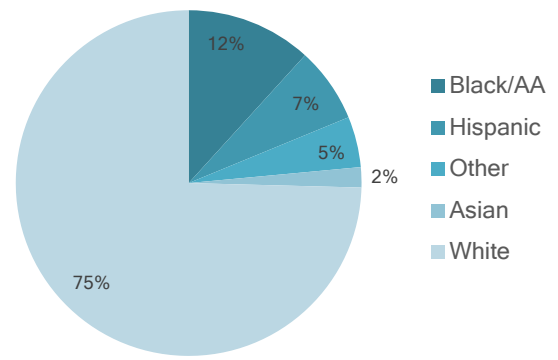

67% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

SULLIVAN COUNTY

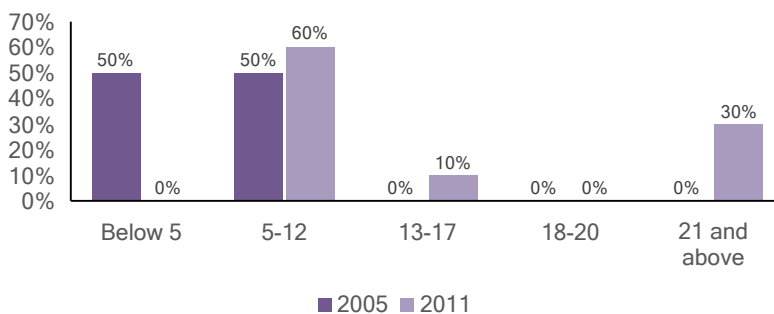

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Sullivan County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (80%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Sullivan County were Black or African American (10%), or Hispanic/Latino (10%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Sullivan County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Sullivan County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Susquehanna County

2005

63

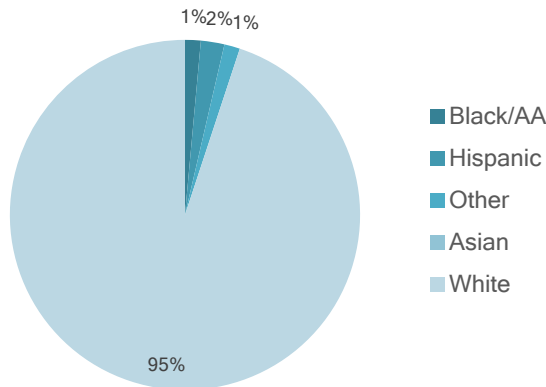

2011

138

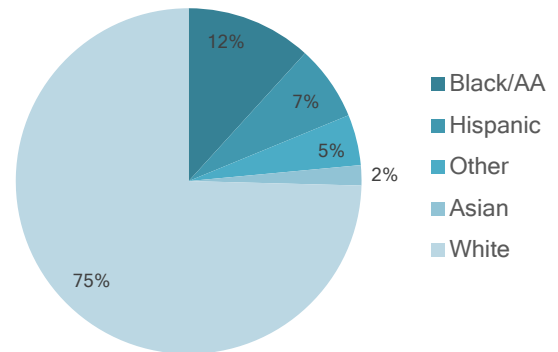

119% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

SUSQUEHANNA COUNTY

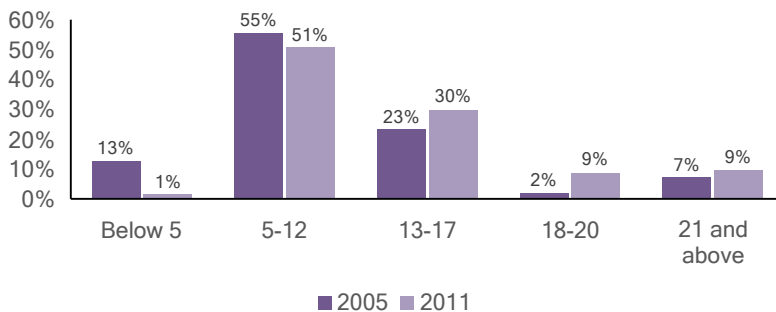

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Susquehanna County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (95%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Susquehanna County were Black or African American (2%), Hispanic/Latino (2%), or Other (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Susquehanna County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Susquehanna County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Tioga County

2005

49

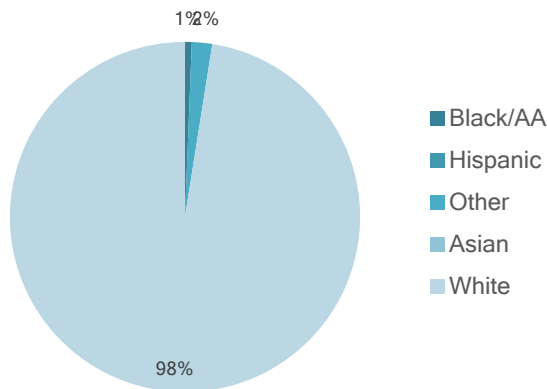

2011

160

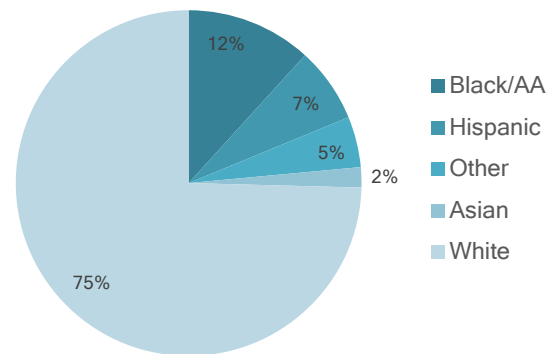

227% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

TIOGA COUNTY

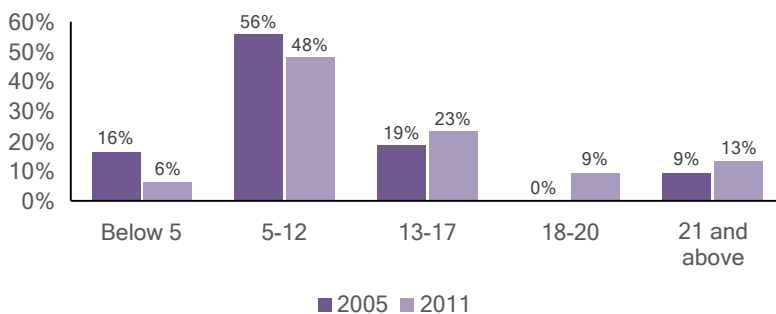

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Tioga County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (94%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Tioga County were Black or African American (1%), Hispanic/Latino (3%), or Other (2%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Tioga County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Tioga County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Union County

2005

40

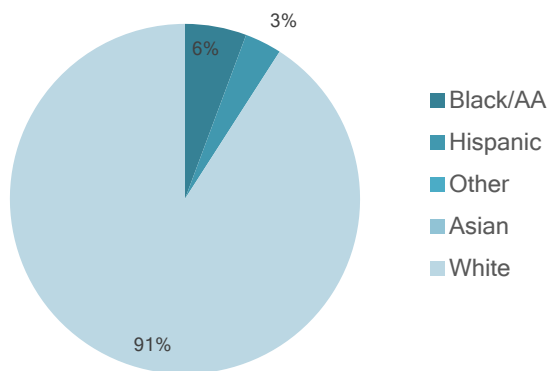

2011

88

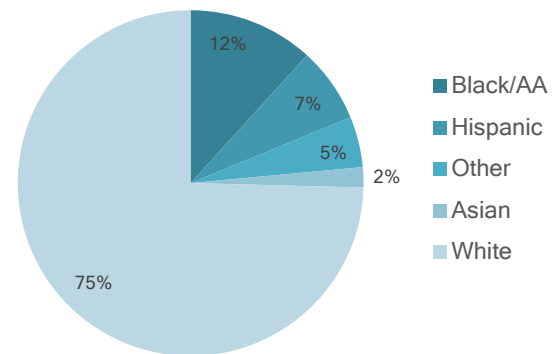

120% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

UNION COUNTY

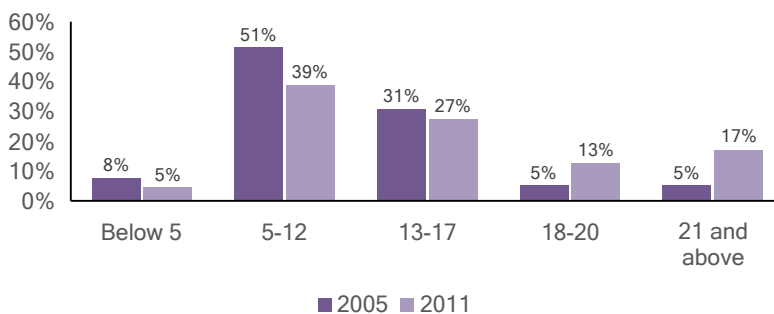

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Union County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (91%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Union County were Black or African American (6%), or Hispanic/Latino (3%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Union County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Union County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Venango County

2005

107

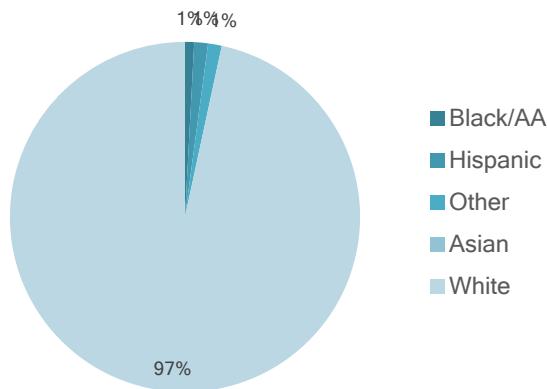

2011

239

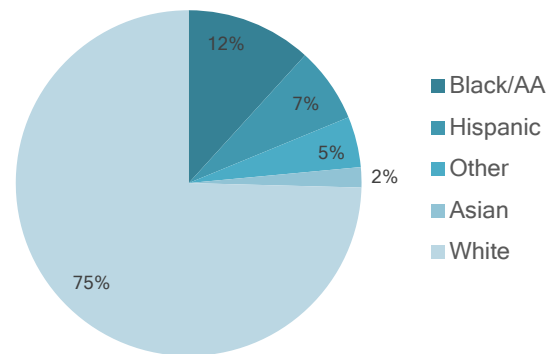

123% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

VENANGO COUNTY

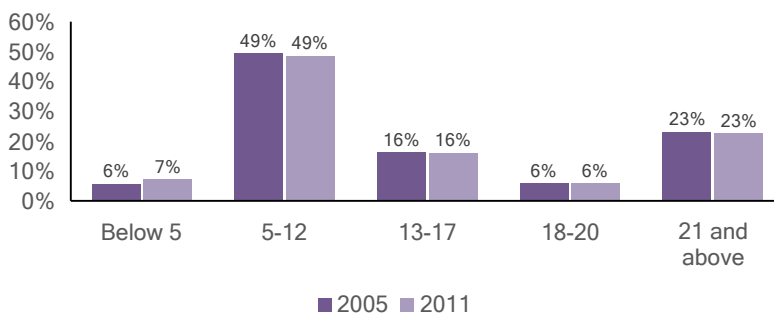

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Venango County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (97%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Venango County were Black or African American (1%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), Asian (1%), or Other (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Venango County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Venango County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Warren County

2005

135

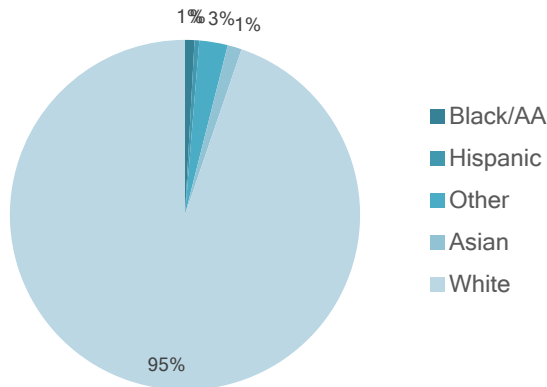

2011

229

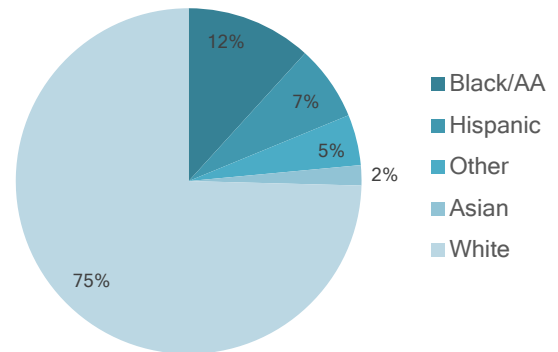

70% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

WARREN COUNTY

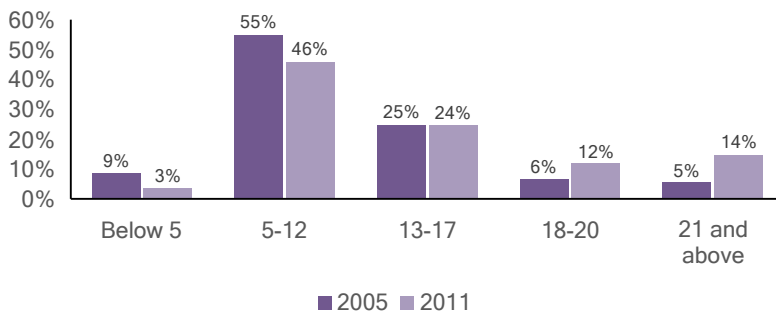

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Warren County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (95%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Warren County were Black or African American (1%), Hispanic/Latino (3%), or Other (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Warren County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Warren County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Washington County

2005

308

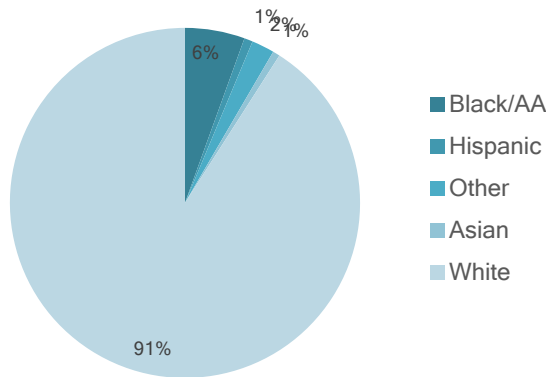

2011

762

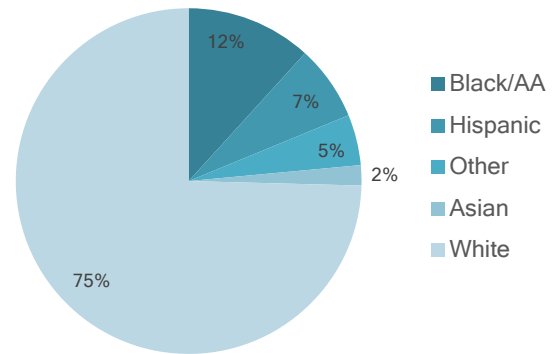

147% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

WASHINGTON COUNTY

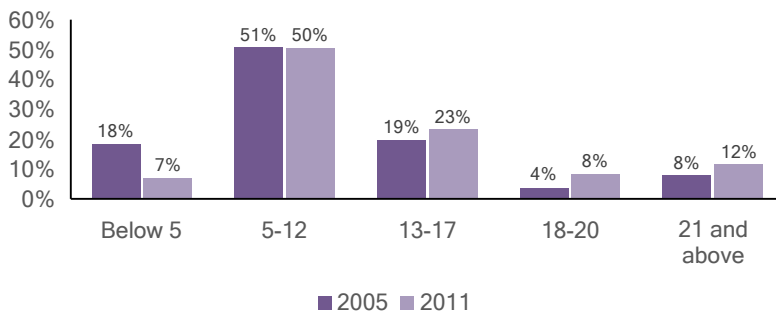

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Washington County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (91%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Washington County were Black or African American (5%), Hispanic/Latino (1%), Asian (1%), or Other (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Washington County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Washington County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Wayne County

2005

93

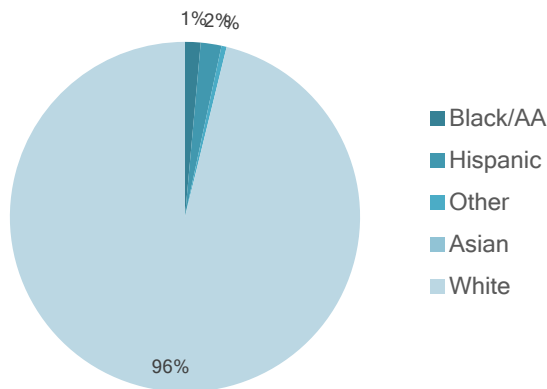

2011

209

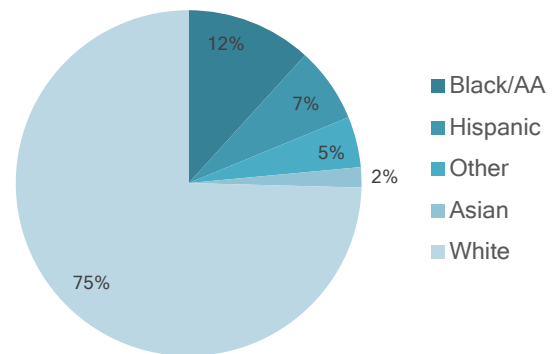

125% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

WAYNE COUNTY

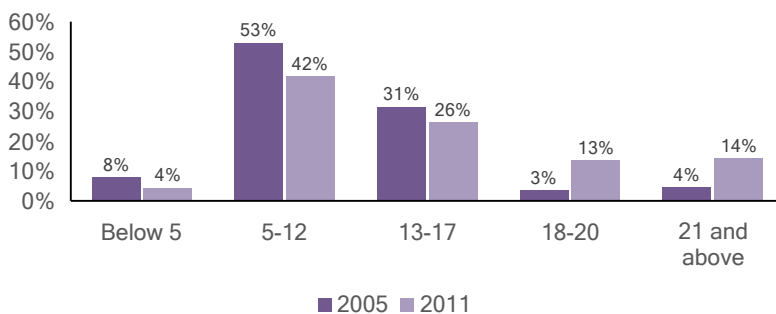

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Wayne County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (96%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Wayne County were Black or African American (1%), Other (2%), or Asian (1%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Wayne County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Wayne County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Westmoreland County

2005

658

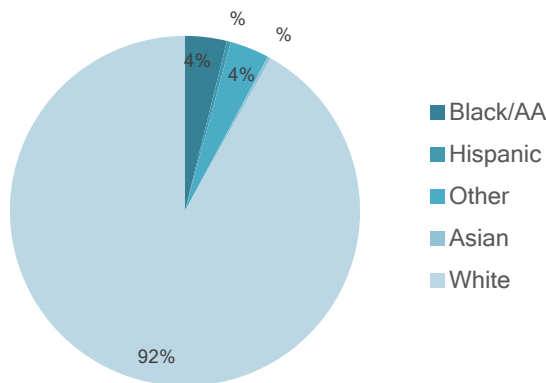

2011

1352

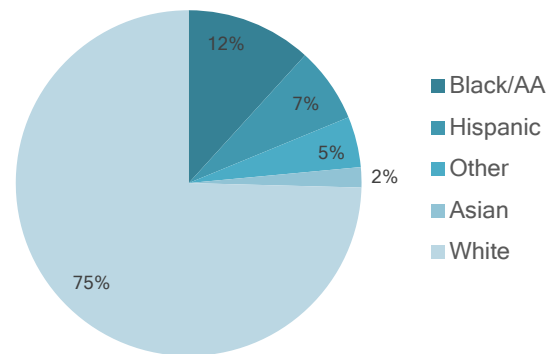

105% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

WESTMORELAND COUNTY

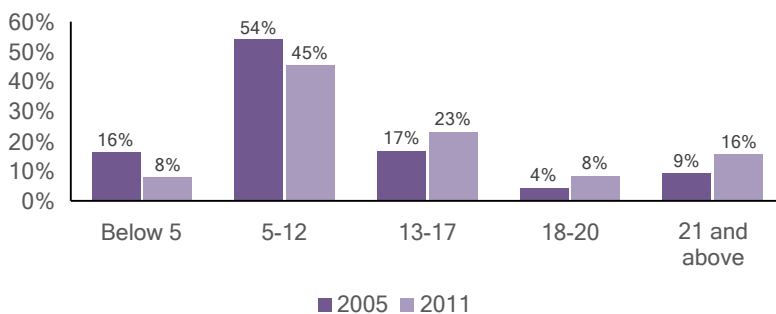

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Westmoreland County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (92%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Westmoreland County were Black or African American (4%), or Other (4%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Westmoreland County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Westmoreland County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

Wyoming County

2005

60

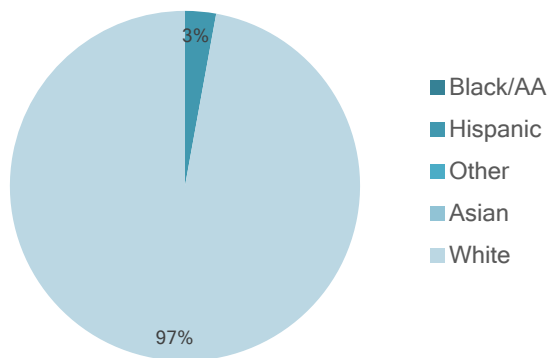

2011

105

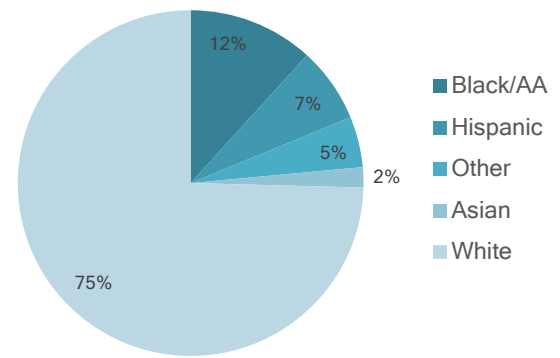

75% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

WYOMING COUNTY

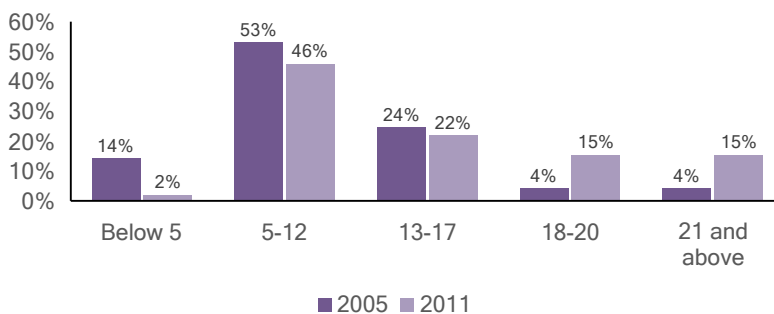

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In Wyoming County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (97%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in Wyoming County were Other (3%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in Wyoming County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In Wyoming County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.

PA Autism Census Update

The PA Autism Census Update, conducted by the Autism Services, Education, Resources, & Training Collaborative (ASERT) provides a count of the number of individuals with autism who are receiving service in Pennsylvania and identifies where these individuals live and which systems are supporting them. This information can be a powerful tool to help you, your family, decision-makers and others in your local community to understand how autism looks by profiling where and how individuals with autism are receiving services. You can read the full PA Autism Census Report and find more information at www.PAautism.org/census

York County

2005

566

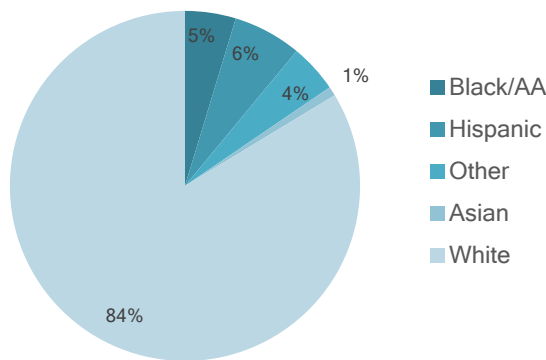

2011

1413

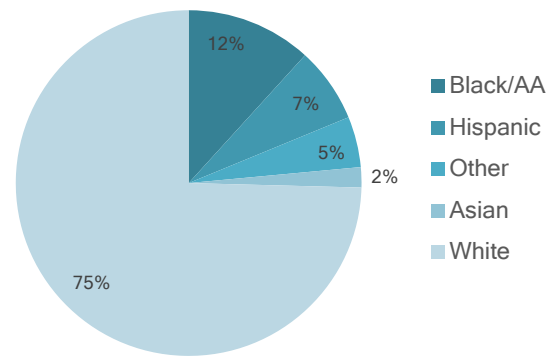

150% increase

Race/ Ethnicity

YORK COUNTY

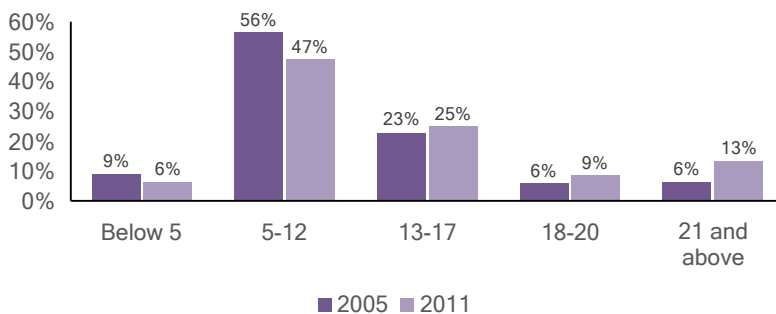

REST OF PA

What does this mean?

In York County, most individuals with autism receiving services were White/Caucasian (84%). A smaller proportion of individuals with autism receiving services in York County were Black or African American (5%), Hispanic/Latino (6%), Asian (1%), or Other (4%) when compared to the rest of Pennsylvania. This comparison between county and state demographics can be helpful to understand what specific or additional challenges your county may face.

Percentage of Individuals in York County by Age Group

What does this mean?

In York County, the majority of individuals with autism receiving services are between the ages of 5-17. However, the number of adults over 21 years old is increasing as the population of individuals with autism receiving services ages.